IN DEDICATION FATHER JOHN GILL

... faithful priest, devoted teacher, warm and loving friend to many whose lives have been touched by your ministry ...
from his convocation
25 October 1978

The feelings of the Senior Class for Father John Gill can best be expressed through a poem written by one of his students:

In that man there is knowledge and experience
And all that knowledge and experience I hope to learn,
I hope to learn.

That man is very wise and solemn
And all that wisdom and solemnness I hope to bare,
I hope to bare.

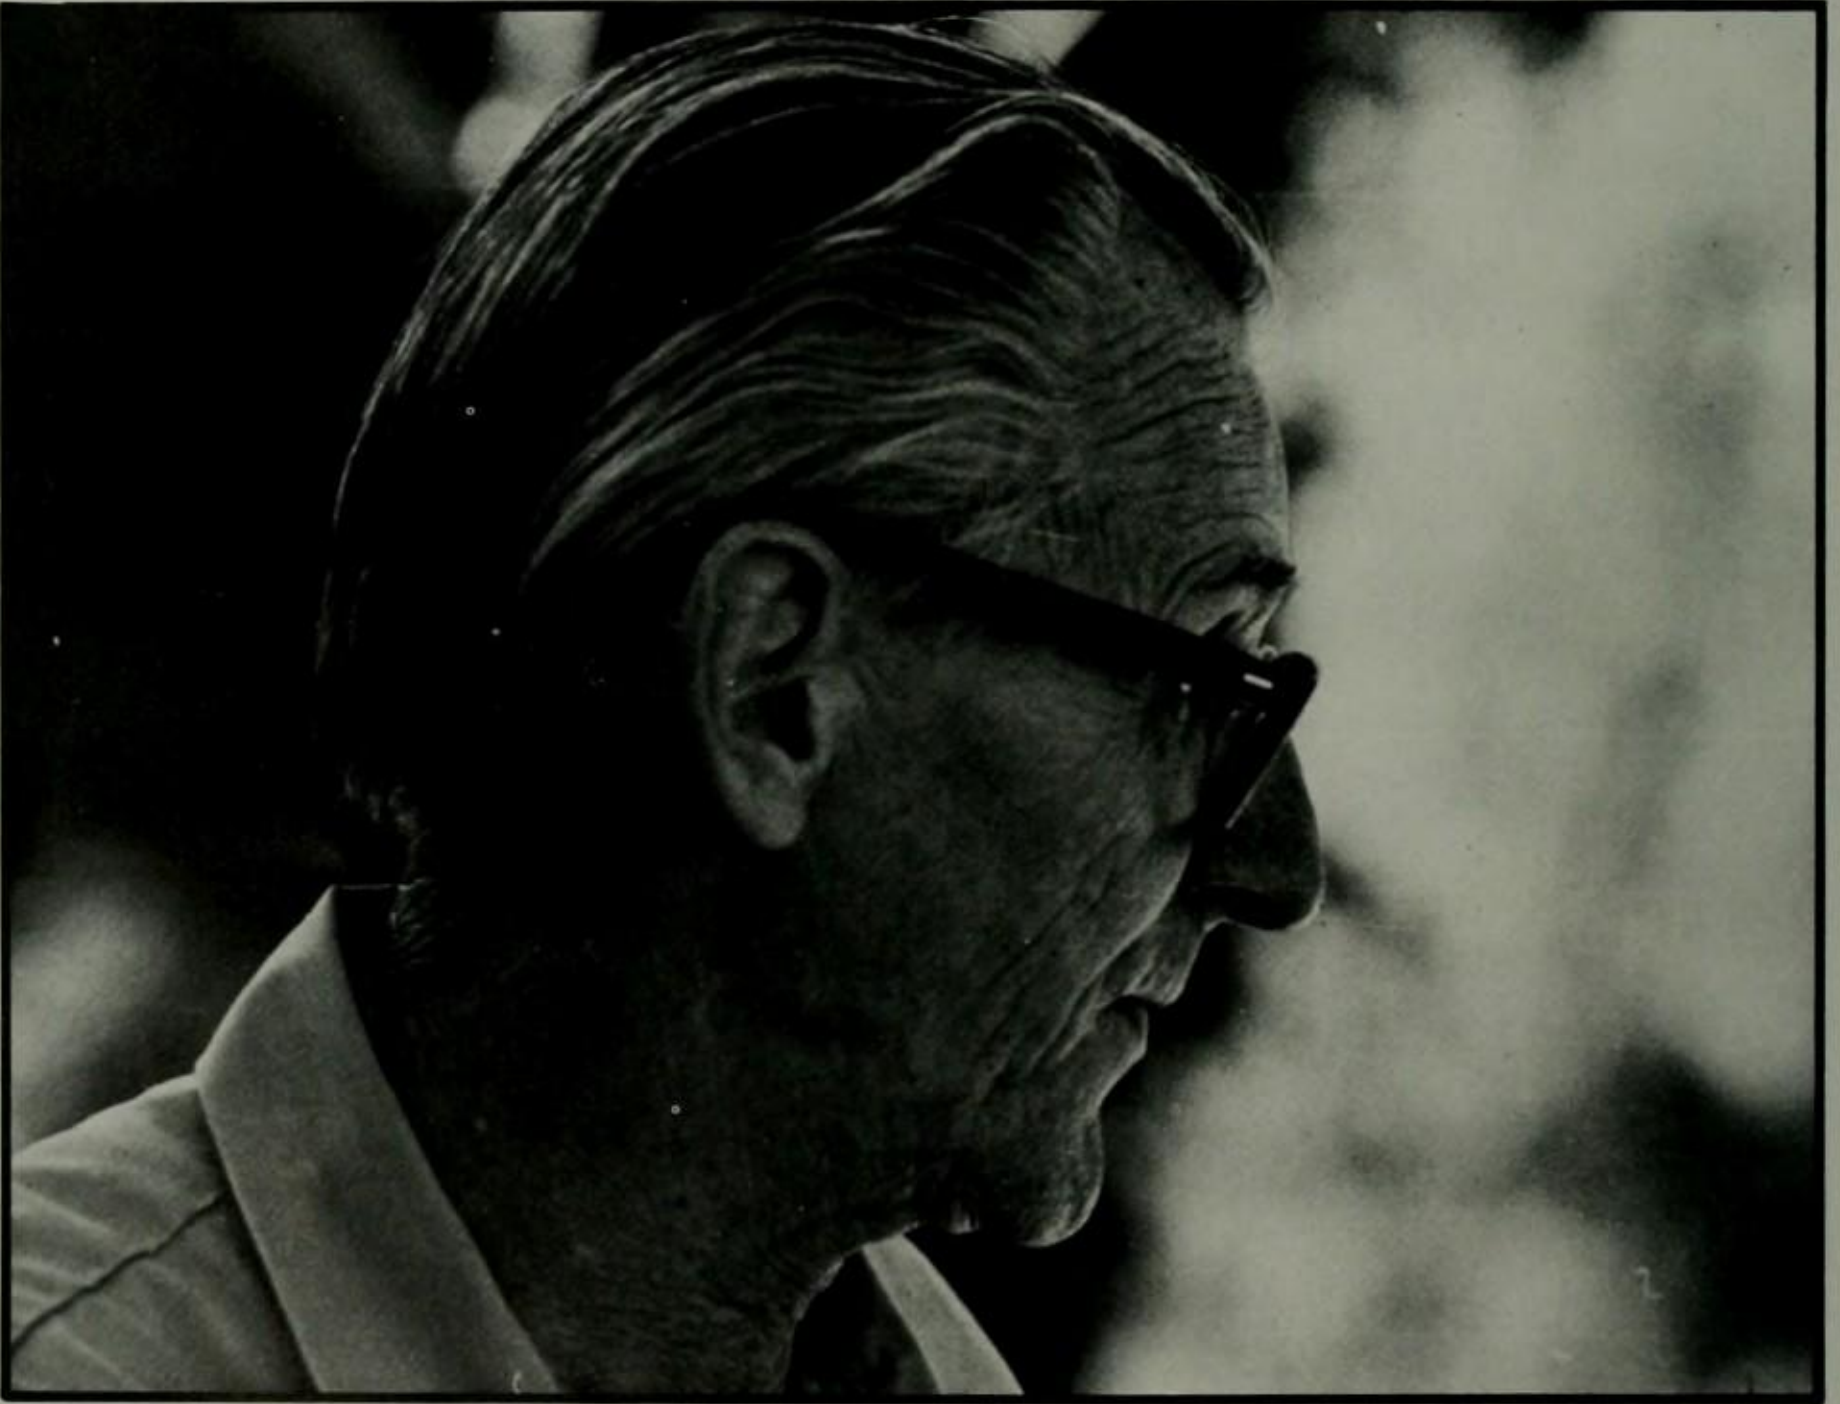

That man is good and of the Lord
And that goodness is all I want,
All I want.

That man is full of pep and patience;
Something I do not have in me now,
But I shall hopefully learn.

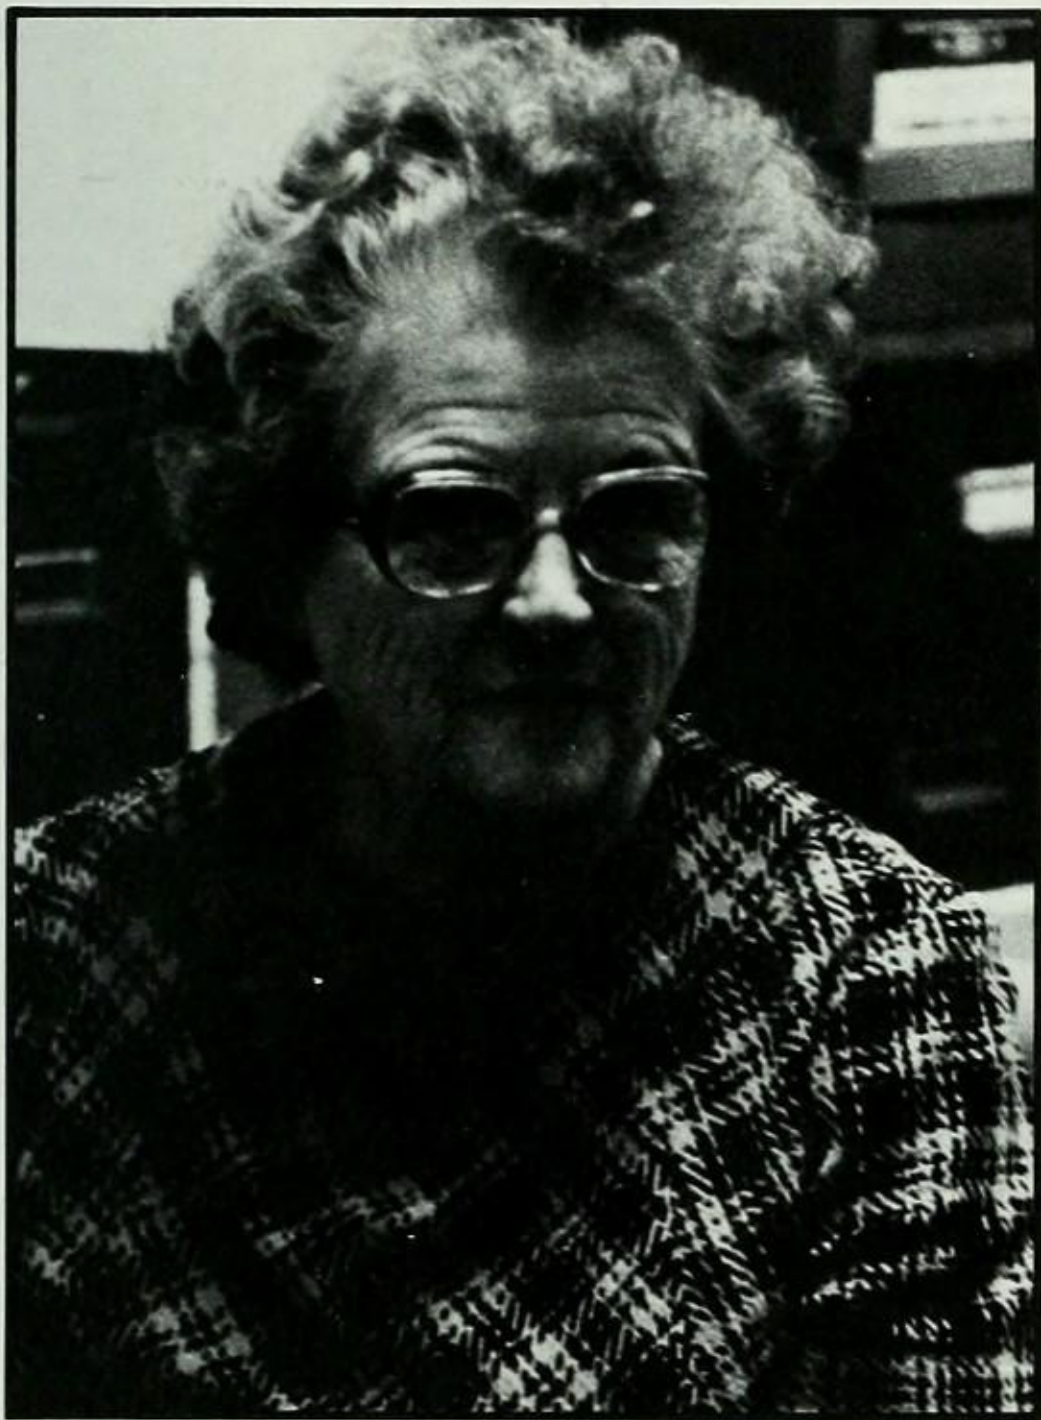

When he lies on his death bed,
Overhead is a fan;
He will die and perish from this earth,
that perfect man . . .

*IN APPRECIATION
JOHNNY BOKOWSKI*

AND FAYE SITCH

This year two devoted members of the Harvard School community are "graduating" after a combined total of 60 years of service.

Johnny Bokowski has been the backbone of the Harvard maintenance crew from the day he arrived at Harvard in 1948. It was a significant day for him, for the School, and for the calendar — February 29.

Over the years, Johnny accumulated such a fund of information about the buildings and grounds of the campus that he was frequently more accurate than the maps or plans. Hardly a lighting or plumbing fixture has escaped his attention. In a very real sense, he has kept the School together. He is also a former Harvard parent, Scott having graduated in the Class of 1975.

Faye Sitch started work in October, 1950. She began as seamstress in the military days, keeping uniforms in good order and making emergency repairs before important parades. For the past few years she has been in charge of the bookstore. She has watched hundreds of Harvard boys come and go, viewing their progress with pride, never allowing the rush and flurry of young people to disturb the effectiveness of her work.

All of us will sorely miss these two friends who have set a high standard of loyalty and dedication to the School they love.

Christopher Berrisford
Headmaster

SENIORS

Consider this single entity — a senior lost in the vortex of absolute confusion. Upon graduation, a senior leaves behind a rigid structure and enters into a sphere of no dimensions. Travelling far beyond the twilight zone, he enters the future . . .

In reflection, the past six years have provided each senior with more than the best education. Harvard helps to mold character, set values, and establish goals. At no time, however, do changes overcome the student with so much impact than during the senior year. The student begins his last year with the superficial concerns common to most unenlightened, young men. His energies are aimed at retaking the SAT, filling out college applications, and achieving high grades. After the first quarter, a tremendous transition soon overcomes each senior. Colleges and grades are replaced with interests of greater substance and value. Who wants to worry about his future when one can study the natural carbonation of hops in a controlled environment?

Thus, the senior leaves Harvard fully prepared to be successful in life. He leaves the security of reality and enters a world beyond the conception of the mortal mind. He enters the future . . .

Congratulations, Class of 1979. You are leaving Harvard with an outstanding record of academic and athletic success. We respect you for your achievements and we are grateful to you for the energy and enthusiasm that has marked your activities — serious and sometimes not so serious.

This book will be a constant reminder of friends, hard work and happy times. As the years go by, you will cherish the memories it brings back.

We wish you good fortune and success in the years ahead, and may they be just as rich and fulfilling as those you spent at Harvard.

Christopher Berrisford
Headmaster

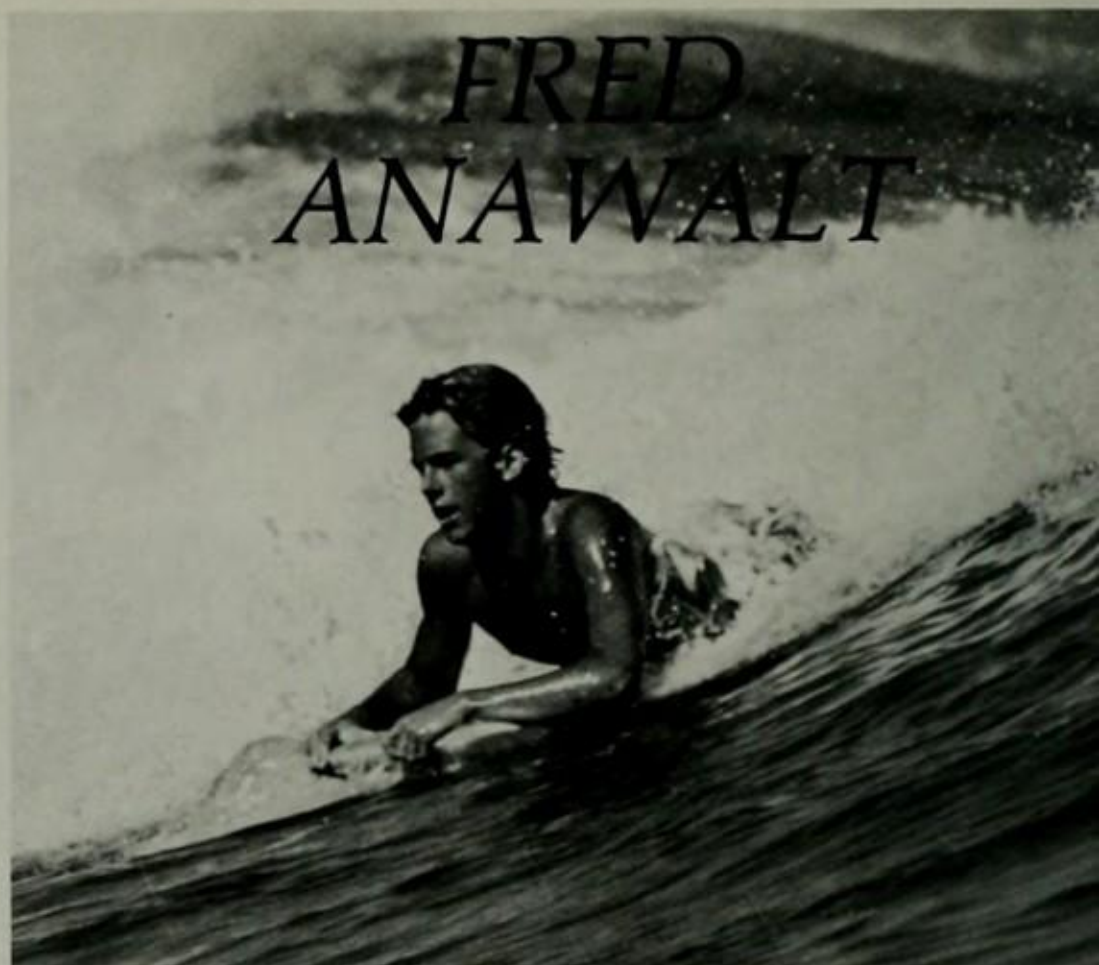

Allen,

The courage and determination you have shown makes you a person to be admired and respected. Your attitude has been a great inspiration to everyone who knows you. We are all behind you, and we will always be there.

To my family and friends —

You are the best anyone could hope to have.
My thanks to Suzi Dietz, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Holmes, Mr. Johnson, Ms. Moser, John West, and Mr. Woods for enriching my experiences at Harvard.

"Toros, these new Referee boots of yours are simply mashing."

"Why thank you, Emmett."

"No es para tanto"

Then he waited, marshaling his thoughts and brooding over his still untested powers. For though he was master of the world, he was not quite sure what to do next.

But he would think of something.

Thank you Harvard for six great years. Thank you Mom and Dad; I couldn't have survived without you.

Our revels now are ended. These our actors,
As I foretold you, were all spirits, and
Are melted into air, into thin air.
And, like the baseless fabric of this vision,
The cloud-capped towers, the gorgeous palaces,
The solemn temples, the great globe itself -
Yea, all which it inherit - shall dissolve
And, like this insubstantial pageant faded,
Leave not a rack behind. We are such stuff
As dreams are made on, and our little life
Is rounded with a sleep.

 You have two sides one out in the field and one in.
 Each man that's in the side that's in goes out and when he's out he comes in and the next man goes in until he's out.
 When they are all out the side that's out comes in and the side that's been in goes out and tries to get those coming in out.
 Sometimes you get men still in and not out.
 When both sides have been in and out

My twelve years of education, especially the past three years at Harvard, have been wonderful, hard, unique, and it is an unforgettable period of my life. Despite all the pains involved, these years are special because:

"Your past remains bound in you, it lives in the present and will follow you into the future." — Steiner

"If a man empties his purse into his head, no one can take it from him." — Benjamin Franklin

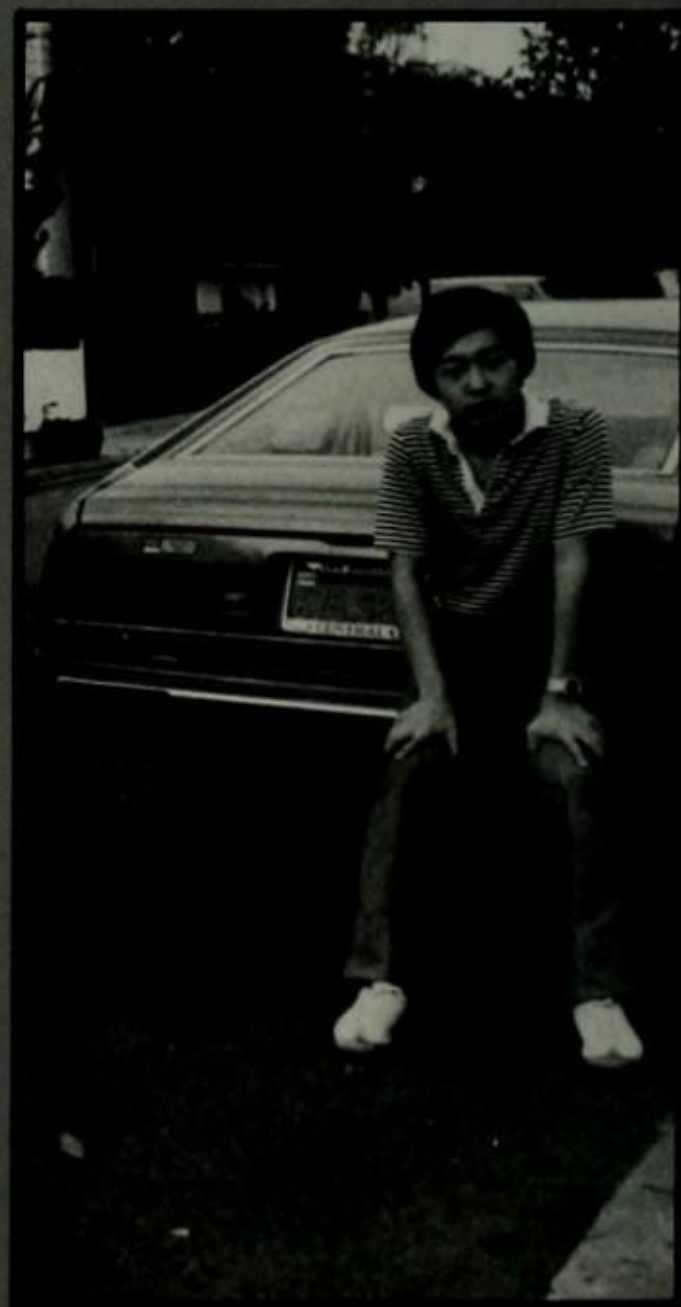

I would like to thank all the classmates, teachers, and of course, my family for being a part of such a special period of my life. There is still a long road ahead for all the members of the current Senior Class, but it should be realized that:

"The only limit of our realization of tomorrow will be our doubts today. Let us move forward with strong and active faith." — F.D.R.

There are so many people to thank, and yet, how can I do so properly? I can only hope that over the years I have expressed my gratitude to all of you.

A Special Thanks To The Following People: Gibson, Father Gill, Magusin, Roberts, Winetrobe, Johnson, Miller, West, Drew, Luebtow, Archer, Thran, Duva, Blankmeyer, Brysha, Brink, Bumsted, Pacheco, McFadden, Gingell, Wardlaw, Harold Robbins, Stanley, H. H., Ryan, Harvard School, and my fellow students.

To My Mother, Father, as well as My Sister Edew, My Brothers, and Grandparents, the love you have given me can only be returned by the love I give you.

Let me bring you love from the field:

JEFF CUNNINGHAM

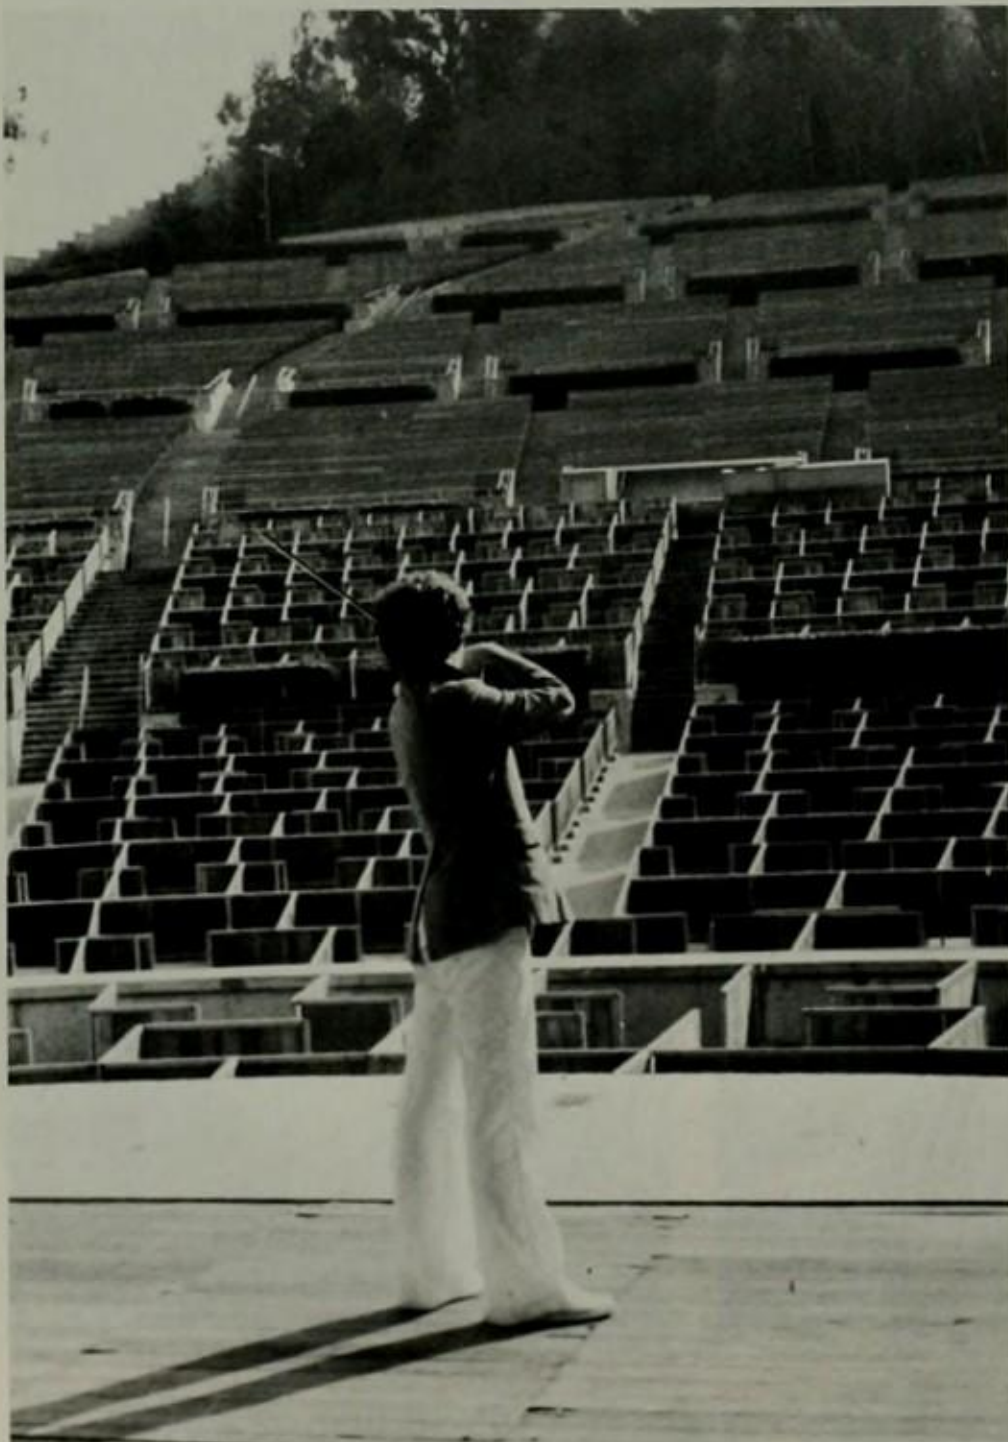

Firstly, I'd like to thank my parents. They deserve thanks, praise and much sympathy for putting up with me all these years. They are truly wonderful. Let me add special appreciation and loving kindness to my father who not only is in Rudyard Kipling's description a Man, and who not only is a father in terms of guiding me and helping me grow, but also, is my best friend. Let me also congratulate my mother for tolerating my arrogance, lack of respect for so long; she deserves a medal. Secondly, let me show my inordinate love, appreciation, and respect for my brother by saying, "Brother, I not only rank you up there with Dad, and Don Quixote, but also consider you along with Dad my best friend. With a friend like you I know I can accomplish my dreams." Thirdly, I'd like to thank a few of my teachers: McFadden for more than teaching me the game of basketball but also introducing me to what life is all about — to me you'll always be "Coach." Coach, Thanks. I'd like to thank Kramer, Stolkin, Corcoran, Pacheco, Moser, Johnson, Gibson, and Ryan for teaching me each of your specialized fields, for being my friend, and also for being someone special to me. Lastly, I'd like to thank all my friends without whom I'd never be the person who I am. Let me thank without, hopefully, hurting anyone's feelings by not listing their names: Eddy, Michelle, Karen, Kathy, Marc, Fred, Stuart, Sheldon, Mike, Steve, Jill, Tommy, Andy, Brian, Mitch, Seth, Ben, Kessup, and Ted.

I'll miss you Harvard; you gave me an experience I'll never forget and wish that all boys could get. Shalom!

My real faith, then, is in a dream that in spite of daily headlines prophesying man's destruction, we can build a better world, a world of peace and human brotherhood. Yes, even in our lifetime! This is my faith and my dream. In my small way I want to have a share in making it come about.

O.K! So I didn't take every opportunity you gave me to my fullest advantage but it's not your fault and you still deserve recognition for all you have done. To Mr. Holmes, Mr. Ledyard, Miss Moser, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Winetrobe, and Coach Thran, thank you all for everything you have done, and believe me, I appreciated everything. My only wish is that I could have given better results. Wish me luck!

To all my friends who have made my experience at Harvard more important and all the more enjoyable, I cannot thank you enough. To Waxer and his and my family; we will never lose touch and I will never forget the love you have given over the years and the years to come. Believe me, it's mutual. To my brother; thank you for all the papers you help me write, and for all the good times we had together at home.

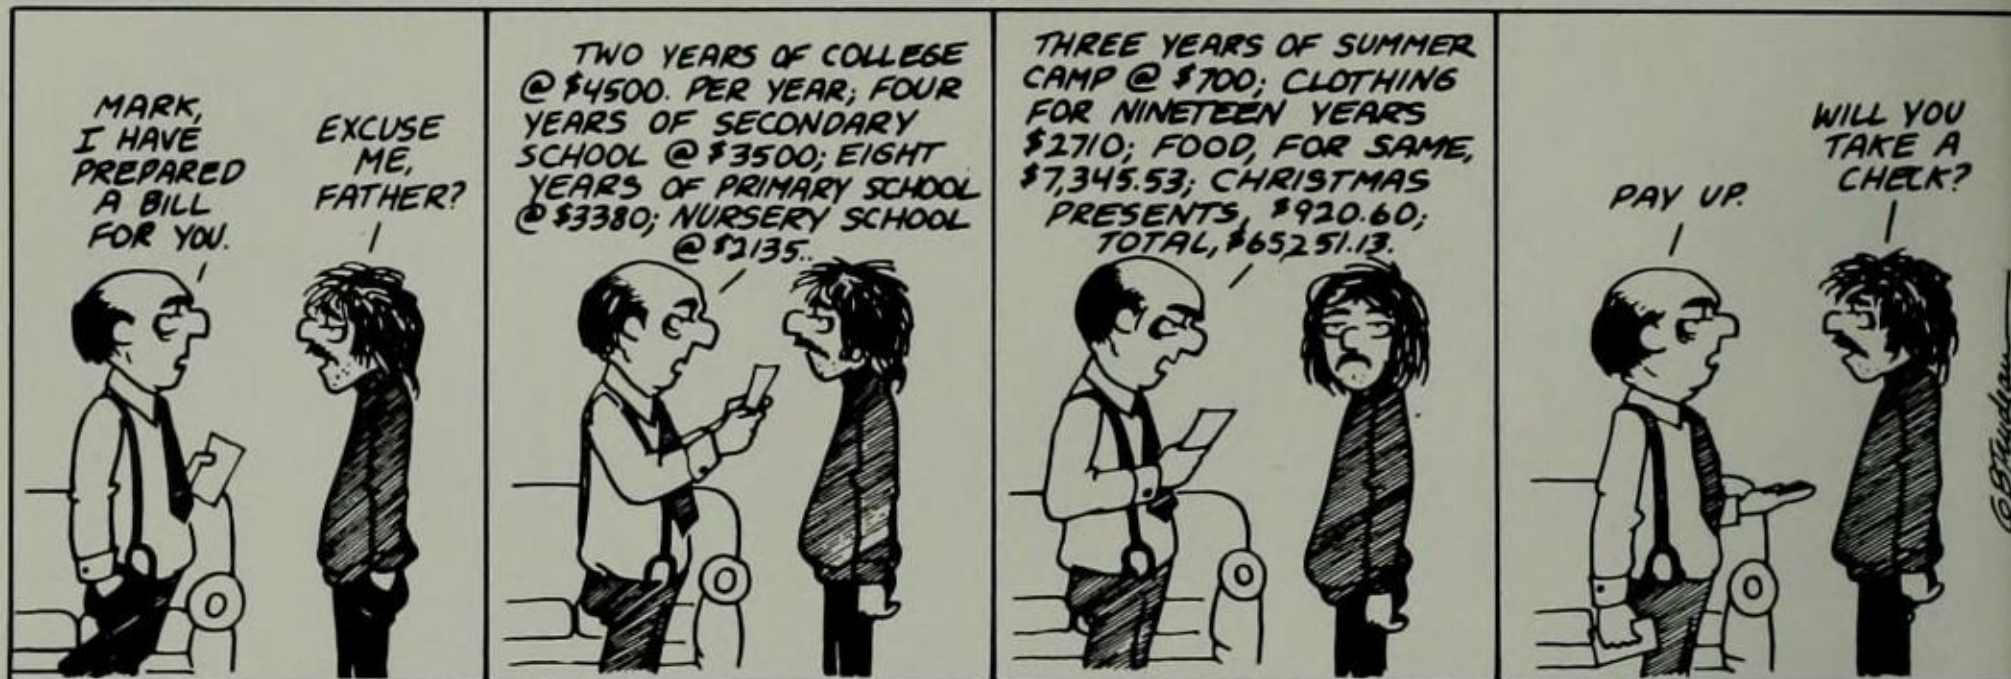

To my parents; Thank you for sending me to such a fine school. This is one thing I will be grateful for when I get older. Your love has enabled me to do more things than I ever thought possible. I can never thank you enough, but don't feel bad because I'll do the same for my children.

Lissa: We've known each other for a long time and hopefully for forever. We've experienced many beautiful things and I even enjoyed our arguments and our "fights." What we have is something that no one can ever take away and when we meet again, maybe we can turn over our new "leaf." I believe you "can go home" and if what we have is true then it will always be.

A black and white photograph showing a person in a small boat on a body of water. The person is wearing a light-colored shirt and dark pants, and is holding a long pole or oar. The water is calm, and the background is filled with dense trees and foliage. The lighting suggests it might be late afternoon or early morning.

For more than four years I have been considering clever bits of trivia to place on my senior page as wills to various people. Now I am told that the wills will go in a separate publication because they do not belong on senior pages. This argument is purely specious.

The suggested pictures have duly been provided. I have attempted, wherever possible, to show my more distinctive features.

I can still, however, put the inevitable quotes on my page.

Thus not all of my planning need be wasted.

I could not finish without recognizing some deserving people. My sincere thanks go to Mr. Ackerman, Mr. Archer, Mr. Humphrey, Dr. Johnson, Mr. Magusin, Mr. McGarvey, Mr. Michaud, Mr. Murrow, Mr. Roberts, and Mr. Sisley.

I have spent 3 years at Harvard, and all of them were enjoyable ones. I have had the "pain and pleasure" of experiencing both the private and public modes of education and I'm glad that Harvard was my private school experience. I would like to thank the following teachers, whom I think especially helped me when I needed it the most: Mr. Sisley, Miss Moser, Father Gill, Mr. Marks, Mr. Miller, and Mr. Cohen. Thanks especially to my parents for supporting me always.

These past six years at Harvard are years that I'm sure I'll never forget. They will probably be the most important years of my life because I learned a lot, made a lot of new friends, matured a lot and had a great time doing so. But none of this would have been possible without the help, love, and understanding of my parents. Thanks for everything Elizabeth and Good Luck John.

Michael Thomas Olch

The sunlight pierced through the half drawn shades and entered the familiar habitat where one was situated. The images of the past appear animated as they are recovered one by one from the deep and dark recesses of one's mind. The memories of lovers, friends, teachers, parents, and activities support the theory of how one has taken the past six years for granted. One would enjoy vegetating for many moments about the lost time, but the imaginary knocking from the opposite side of the door has already begun. Yes, the factor of life that everyone must sooner or later face has presented itself at my place of residence.

A cold sweat took hold of my body as the prospect of answering the call became probable. My hand reached for the doorknob. The door slowly creaked open. The light from the hall shot forth into the room.

As the door opened itself to the fullest extent, the cold wind of the future swept into the room and captured the innocent bystander. For one must confront the for once uncertain future. New society circles will evolve and one will find himself coping in a world of change. For all my special people, places, and things the memories remain intact.

And I know somewhere, sometime, and somehow, even after the hands of the eternal clock have made many of their appointed rounds, we will all return and share our new experiences. Even though we now go our separate ways, we will all grow old together.

I think about the times to come
Knowin' I will be the lucky one
And ever our love will last
I always want to call you "Friend"

The according to the man who showed his outstretched arm to space,
He turned around and pointed revealing
all the Human race,
I shook my head and smiled a whisper
knowing all about the place.

On the hill we viewed the silence of the valley
Called to witness cycles only of the past
And we reach all this with movement in between the said remark

I sit beside the fire and think
of all that I have seen,
of meadow flowers and butterflies
in summers that have been;

Of yellow leaves and gossamer in autumns that there were,
With morning mist and silver sun
and wind upon my hair.

I sit beside the fire and think of how the world will be when winter comes without a spring
that I shall never see.

For still there are so many things that I have never seen:
in every wood in every spring
there is a different green.

I sit beside the fire and think
of people long ago,
and people who will see a world
that I shall never know.

But all the while I sit and think of times there were before,
I listen for returning feet
and voices at the door.

Nothing I cared, in the lamb white days, that time would take me
Up to the swallow thronged loft by the shadow of my hand,
In the moon that is always rising,
Nor that riding to sleep
I should hear him fly with the high fields
And wake to the farm forever fled from the childless land.
Oh as I was young and easy in the mercy of his means,
Time held me green and dying
Though I sang in my chains like the sea.

HARRY LEWIS TARNOFF

The human mind is not capable of grasping the Universe. We are like a little child entering a huge library. The walls are covered to the ceilings with books in many different tongues. The child knows that someone must have written these books. It does not know who or how. It does not understand the languages in which they are written. But the child notes a definite plan in the arrangement of the books — a mysterious order which it does not comprehend, but only dimly suspects.

ALBERT EINSTEIN

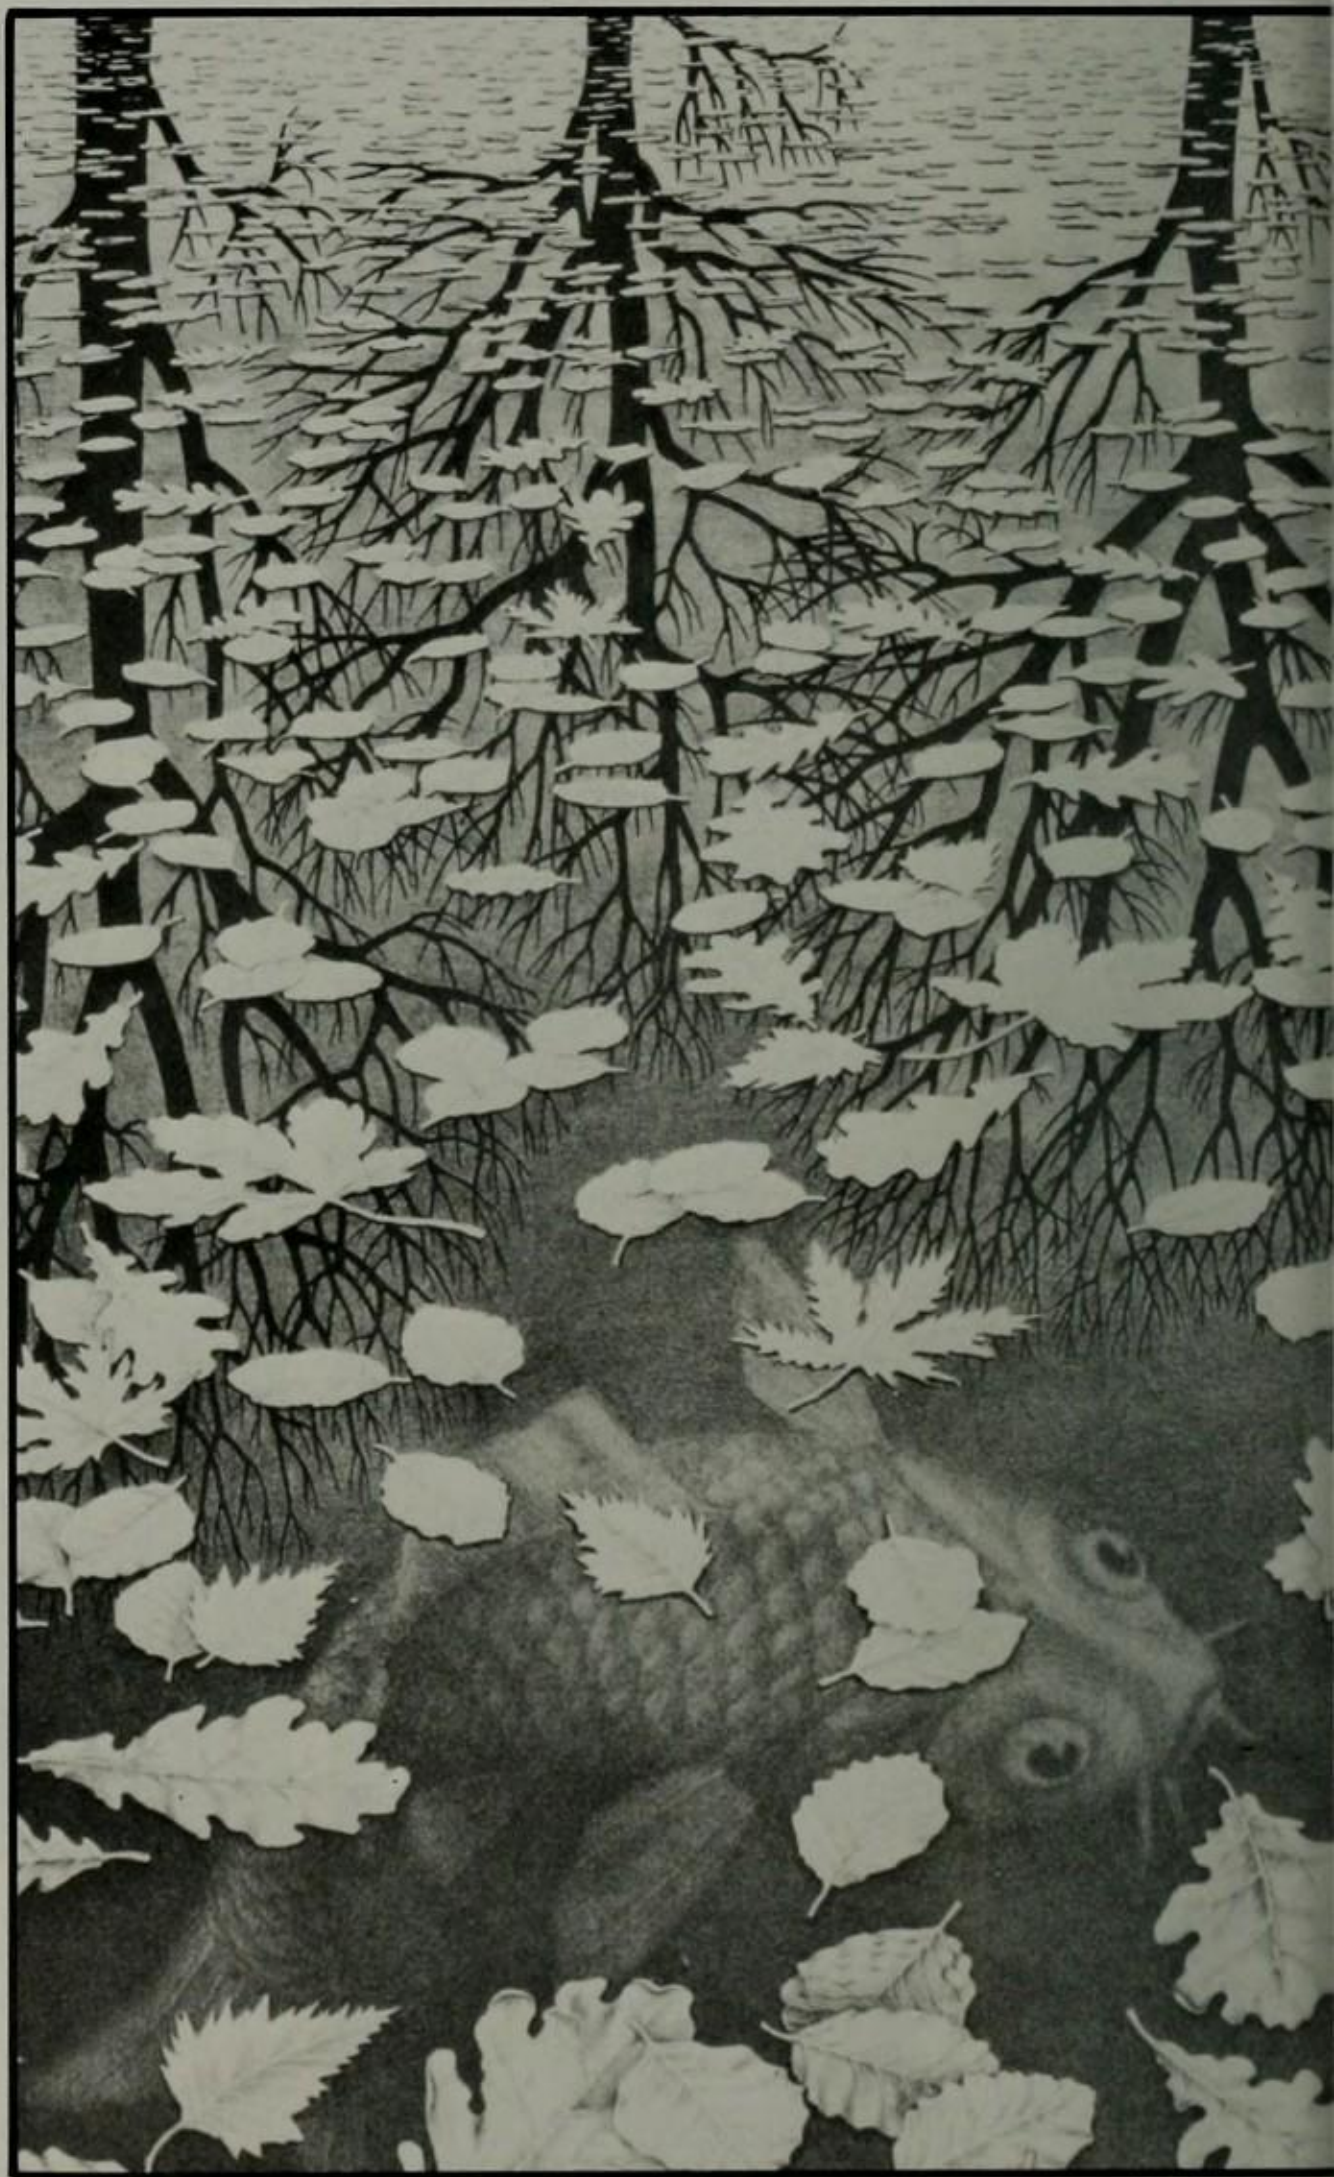

CHRIS TAYLOR

Consider the subtleness of the sea; how its most dreaded creatures glide under water, unapparent for the most part, and treacherously hidden beneath the loveliest tints of azure. Consider also the devilish brilliance and beauty of many of its most remorseless tribes, as the dainty embellished shape of many species of sharks. Consider, once more, the universal cannibalism of the sea; all whose creatures prey upon each other, carrying on eternal war since the world began.

Consider all this; and then turn to this green, gentle and most docile earth; consider them both, the sea and the land; and do you not find a strange analogy to something in yourself? For as this appalling ocean surrounds the verdant land, so in the soul of man there lies one insular Tahiti, full of peace and joy, but encompassed by all the horrors of the half-known life. God keep thee! Push not off from that isle, thou canst never return!

For one brief, shining moment —
 One of crisis, and elation
 One of eros, and creation —
 You experience a starburst
 As it races 'cross the heavens,
 In the splitting of an instant . . . then your life,
 It travels on;

And yet never you forget it,
 For that one brief, shining moment,
 Twas your mind that was a dancing
 In the colors that you saw.

I go on, another whiley Armenian in the roles of the noble institution. And those who stay behind repeat their tasks for a new generation of students. Those I love, whether administration, faculty, or staff, have all been teachers from whom I've learned. The debt I owe them is one I'll never be able to fully repay, for the currency in which they deal is far rarer than the most valuable of metals and gems man knows. Exclude no name from the lists between 1973 and 1979, they have all had something to give to me.

The snow amid the evergreens, or the waves upon the blue-green sea, in many places and on many worlds my lessons I have learned. Harvard has been an important part of this, for it was here I learned to change creativity into creation. It was here I learned direction, and it is from here that I move forth.

Undertake the uncompletable, attempt the impossible, and advance upon that unpassable, for not all that is visible is seen, and not all that can be seen is visible. One needs imagination. A single dream is worth a thousand realities.

Much love to all my friends and family. I go on, another whiley Armenian in the roles of the noble institution. But I shall never leave.

I'll bet you were expecting something really original from the person who brought you the only "V" in last year's roster. Sorry people, this is just an exercise in filling space. As I leave Harvard, many things come to mind; memories of early morning gym classes, ten period days, and ten dollar lunch cards. Although these memories and many others will be with me for many years, I think that what I will remember most are the friendships that I have developed in the course of my stay here. I owe a great deal to my friends for without them I would have been lost.

David: What can I say except thanks; you have always been there and that has helped me more than anything. After six years, there is no way that this is the end.

Roger: You have helped me a great deal more than I ever deserved. Doomo Arigatoo.

Mark: I am glad that we were able to share these past six years and I wish you all the luck in the world for the future.

Peter: We've finally made it haven't we. Thanks for all the good times and thanks for being a friend. Good Luck.

Also,
My eternal gratitude to Grandma and Win and to Grandma and Grandad.

But, most of all,
Thanks to my Mom and Dad, you have made it all happen and I am forever grateful.

JUST A FEW APPROPRIATE WORDS:

Larry, you have broken through barriers when many would have failed. As a brother you have my love. As a friend you have my respect. May success be yours!

Joanne, our love and friendship is very special. Being so close in age has made our brother, sister relationship quite unique. I just cannot say enough about you, to do you justice. May your life be always filled with love and happiness!

Mom and Dad, you're the greatest parents one could ever hope for. You have always been there when I needed you, yet you also provided enough space for me to grow. You have produced a family that is filled with love and happiness. Thank you for everything. I love you both dearly.

Nunu and Papa, as grandparents you have provided the whole family with a sense of tradition, endless hours of fun times and most of all, love. p.s. I bet you did not think that I would use your real names!

Tom, since our friendship began in the eighth grade, a binding force has come between us. This force I feel can clearly be defined as brotherhood. The number of Great Times we have had could never be counted, there have just been too many. I am sure that our friendship will last the rest of our lives. See you at college! Oh by the way, try to avoid to E.S.A.D.!

Thank you for six great years Harvard. Special thanks to, Messers. Stewart, Trobe, Dickey and McGarvey.

I thank my teachers for what you have taught me both inside and outside the classroom. Thank you Dr. Archer, Mr. Berk, Mr. Ledyard, Mr. McGrew, Ms. McGuire, Mr. Hatch, and Coach Stewart. And I express particular gratitude to Dr. Johnson for taking an interest and to Mr. Woods for caring.

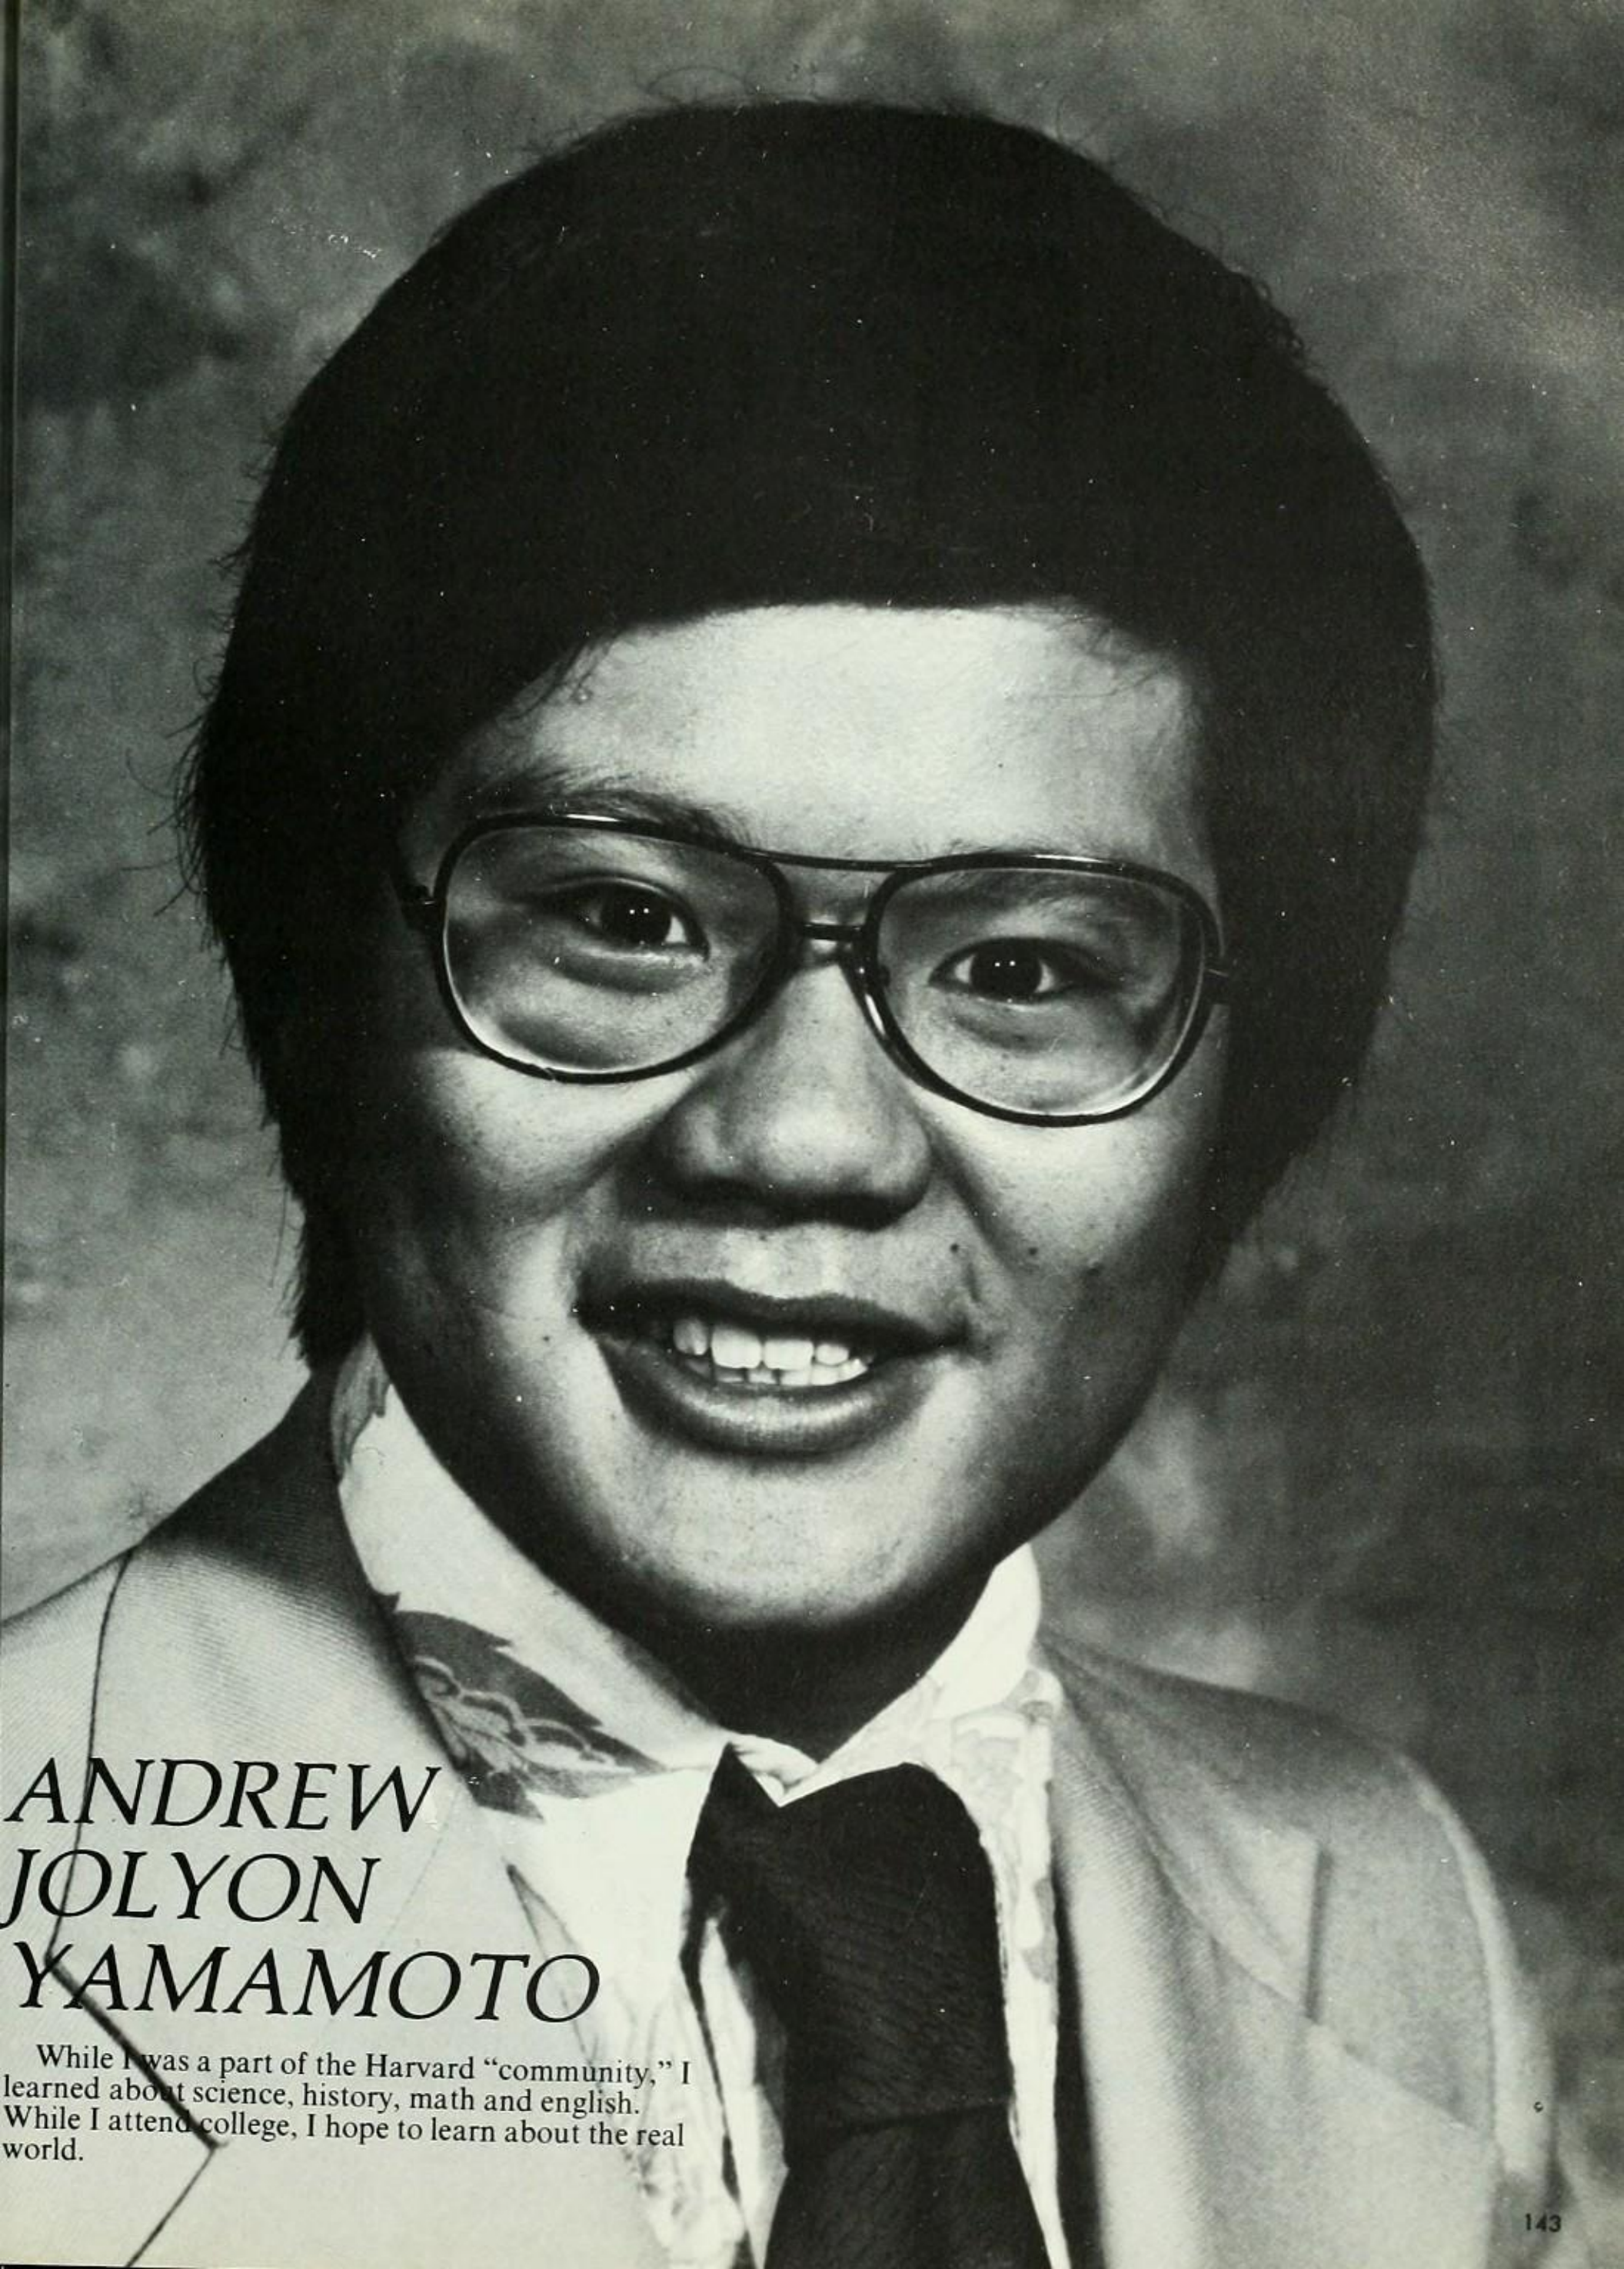

I hope my classmates at Harvard have gained as much from me as I have from them. I am especially grateful to:

- Tom Duskow: for listening
- Daniel Goodman: for making us a winning debate team
- Chris Forman: for sharing an interest
- Billy Gleason: for being a friend

Most of all, I would like to thank my family. Each one of you is special.

1978 was a year of opportunities for the Harvard football team. The Varsity team completed the season with an outstanding 6-3 record while the Frosh-Soph team struggled to a record of 1-8, often losing by scores of 64-32 to 0.

Harvard's Varsity team was small and inexperienced and many of the experts predicted a last place finish for the Saracens in the competitive Pioneer League. However, Harvard's Varsity team surprised everyone, including themselves, with a superlative 6-3 record (4-3 league record), the best record for a Harvard football team in ten years.

Frosh-Soph Football

The frosh and the sophs all gathered at school,
In August, the weather so hot.
On buses we rode to a field far away,
Because play on our field we could not.

The coaches yelled loud, calisthenics we did,
Our muscles got achy and sore,
A break for some fun at Denny's for lunch,
And then back to the field for some more.

We passed and we ran, we tackled and blocked,
We memorized so many plays,
Getting ready for football season to start
In the heat of those September days.

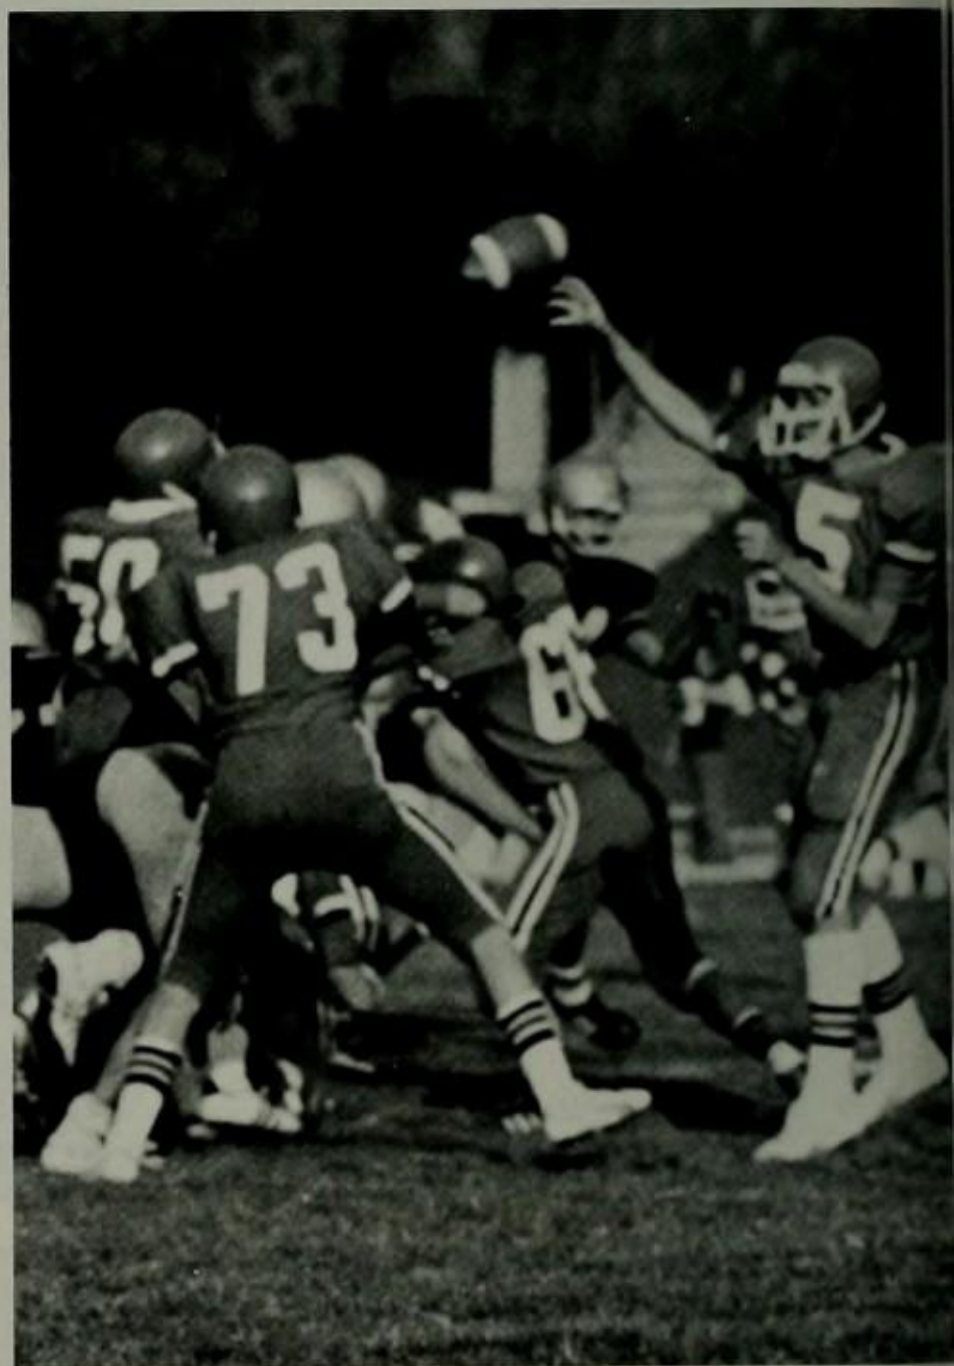

Finally a chance to show off our skill,
Parents gathered round ready to cheer,
But the other team — each boy so big —
We exclaimed, "What have we here?"

Against 60 boys, each bigger than we,
Doesn't matter — with our spirit we'll beat.
But oh, what shock with our tackle and block
When we suddenly went down in defeat.

This pattern repeated, we tried all the plays,
The coaches were rooting us on.
And finally a pass and a touchdown was ours!
By the cheers, you'd think we had won!

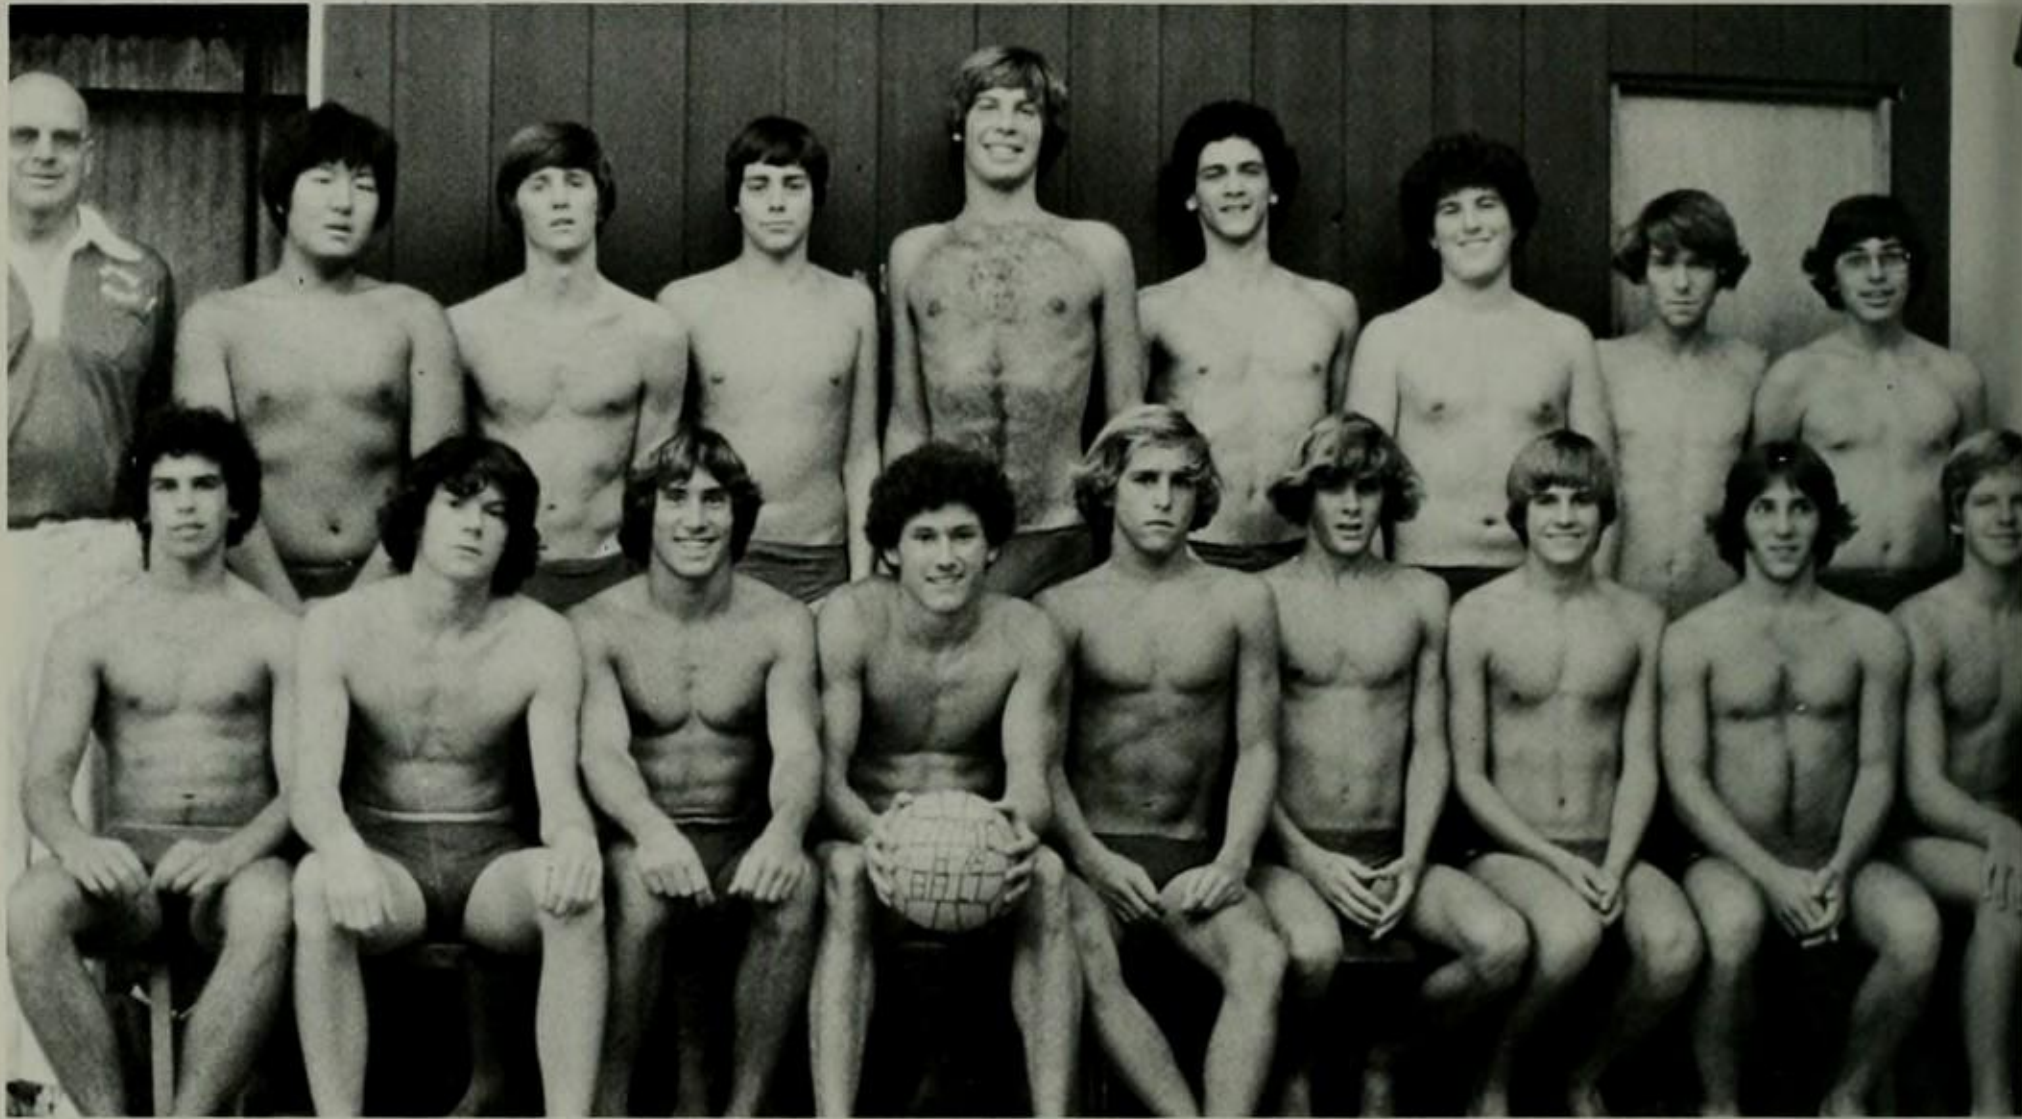

Our record was awful, no games did we win,
Had disappointment and an occasional tear.
But despite broken bones and a Redondo fight,
We'll all play football next year.

This year Harvard's Varsity Water Polo team enjoyed a welcomed departure from four years of frustration. Not only did the team have a winning record of 4-1 in league and 13-8 overall, but this performance also led to a play-off berth for the first time in five years.

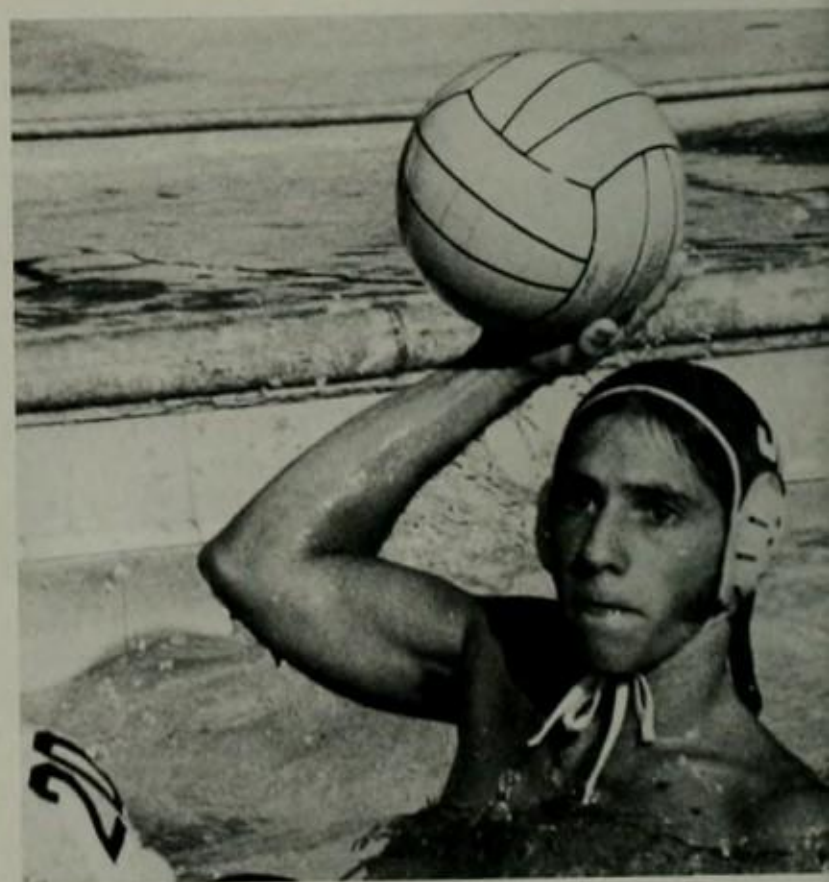

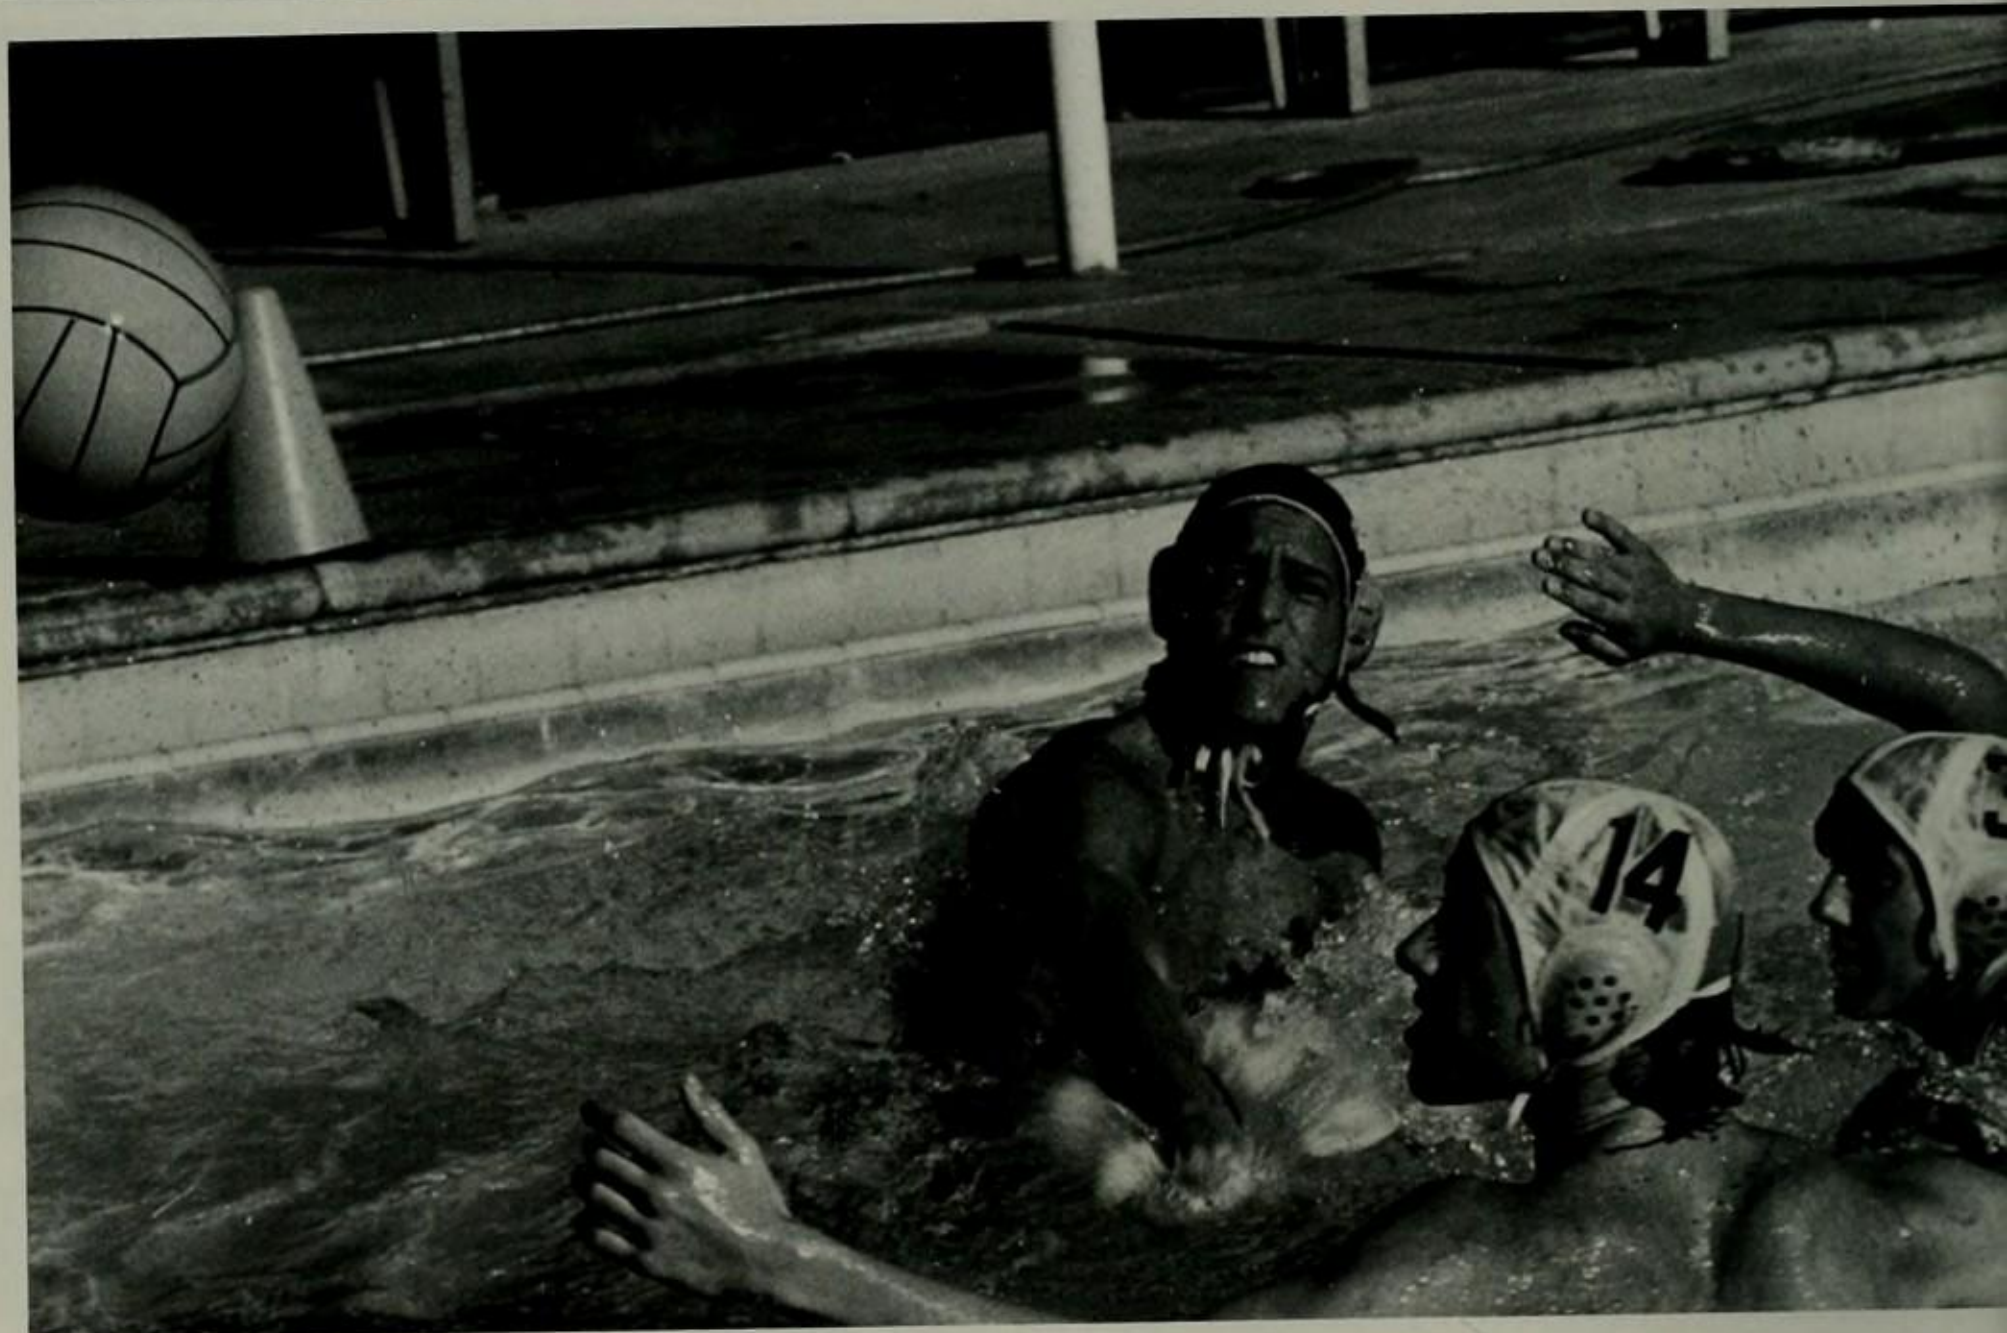

It was a year of surprises. Pre-league wins over rivals Thousand Oaks and Rolling Hills, the first ever, seemed to foreshadow the success to come.

The Junior Varsity team under the direction of coach Dave Gold, had very few players to work with, but turned in a respectable record nonetheless.

The Frosh-Soph had a remarkably good season. It was one of the best in many years.

In past years, cross-country has been a sport that no one has paid much attention to, primarily because of the frequent losses. Each year the team progressed and got better and better at the prodding of its frustrated coach. This year, the team proved to be capable of greater things than Mr. Berk had expected as they finished with an overall winning record. In his last year of coaching, Phil Berk believed that his team had a chance to win the league. The driving spirits and dedicated minds of the runners prevailed as the Varsity finished with an impressive 7-3 record and went to the prestigious Southern Section C.I.F. Semi-Finals. Despite their efforts, the Varsity lost, but all acquired a new T-shirt in the venture. The Junior Varsity team did win the League, which gives promise to next year. The coaching of a fellow runner, Larry David, also boosted this year's team and will be an asset to next year's team. Let us toast to that courageous and determined type of athlete, the Harvard cross-country runner!

JUNIORS...

Through the visages of time, the eleventh grade remains the most dreaded year. Although juniors have not made plans for the future, at no time do they work harder during their life at Harvard. To the junior, the future rests upon the present . . .

Walk up to any junior, mention the following three letters — SAT — and watch him shake into convulsions. If that is not enough, casually mention the PSAT, achievements, and A.P.'s. If you are truly sadistical, remind him that if he fails the A.P. U.S. History exam, he still has all of next year to answer to Mr. Berk. To prepare for these torments, most juniors begin the year with resolutions of hard work. Satisfaction is only reached with a 3.6 and 1200's or better. Unfortunately, most find it impossible to break from the work habits they have already established. But do not worry — there is always the first semester next year.

There is always the future . . .

WINTER SPORTS'

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Thompson, Kaiser, Kim, Williams, Czucker, Sibley, Ruiz, Porter, Forbes, Riach, Marshall, Phelps.

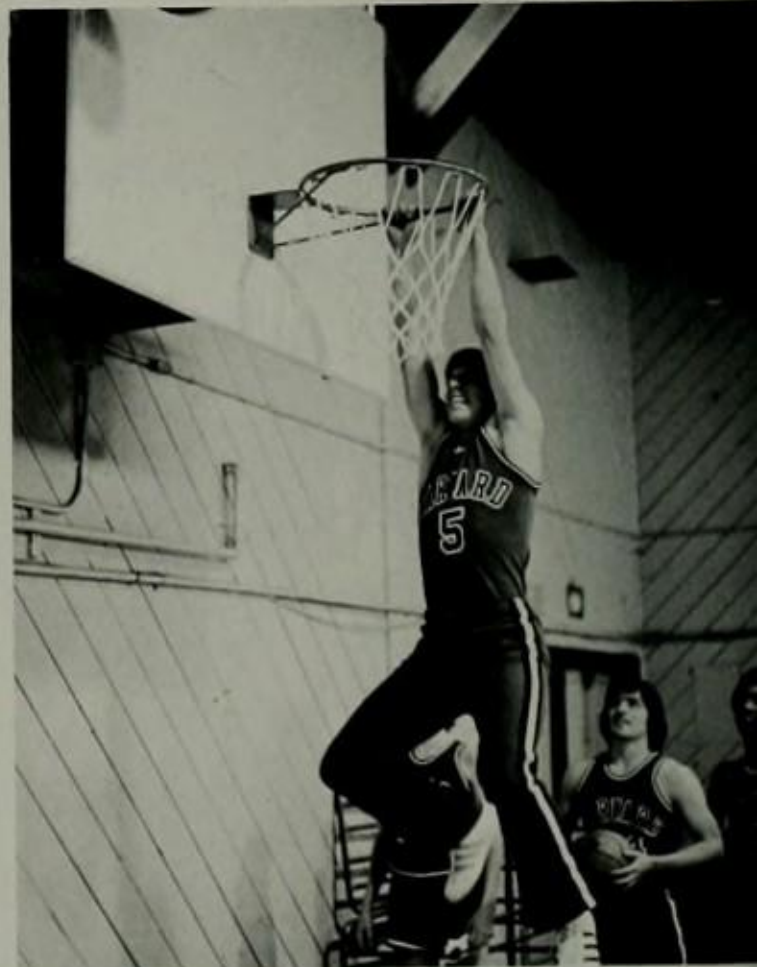

The Harvard School Basketball team finished the 1979 season with an overall record of 7 and 14. Despite the fact that six of the twelve letterman were sophomores and juniors, the club really should have fared better in the Pioneer League. The two captains Mark Czucker and Bill Phelps were returning starters from last year's team. Both played well, but neither really played their best until late in the season. Czucker was voted the best defensive player on the team, as he had 26 steals on the season. Another senior, Cody Forbes hit an excellent 51 percent for the season from the field and a very accurate 81 percent from the line.

This year's team had a fine group of juniors, including: Brian Marshall, Clark Porter, Mark Ruiz, and Most Valuable Player, Bart Williams. Marshall came off the bench to give valuable help to starting guards Williams and Forbes. Clark Porter led the team with 111 rebounds, and Mark Ruiz provided the team with great hustle, having to guard men that were sometimes 3 or 4 inches taller than his 6'4" frame. Williams earned his MVP award by leading the team in scoring with 242 points, assists with 49, and steals with 32. Williams, an All-Pioneer League selection, displayed excellent leadership on the floor with his flashy ball handling abilities.

Sophomores John Thompson and Erin Sibley showed incredible poise despite their inexperience. Both Thompson and Sibley give great hope for Harvard coach Roger Pacheco. Even though Harvard loses seniors Phelps, Czucker, Forbes, Ken Kim, Andy Kaiser, and Steve Riach, the Harvard basketball team of 1980 promises to be one of the best in several years.

For the 1979 season, Harvard soccer entered the Santa Fe League, a highly competitive grouping in the AAA division. The pre-season saw a struggle for identity; the Varsity team participating in the Alemany tournament was unstable, though it did win two games, beating Pomona and Monrovia. The opening of the season proved distressing, for the Varsity dropped successive games to La Salle, defending league champions Alemany, and Notre Dame by an aggregate goal score of 13-1. Yet the team then splattered Pater Noster and, led by English Exchange Student and team M.V.P. Richard Calvert, used a new momentum to win eight of its next nine games. Among these victories were an emotionally charged 1-0 battle with Notre Dame, a 7-1 massacre of Bosco Tech, and a 5-2 beating over Cathedral. Consistent play was provided by Captain John Hennessy as goalie, Captain and All-Leaguer Bill Gleason as centerback, Calvert as forward, and All-Leaguer Steve Horowitz as half-back. Though the team did erase its rocky start it failed to reach the play-offs amidst the other talent of the league, and posted a record of 8-5-1.

The Harvard Wrestling team finished the 1978-1979 season with an overall record of six wins and four losses. The team coached by Mr. Dennis Duva compiled a Santa Fe League record of three wins and one loss. This enabled the Saracen wrestlers to place second overall in the tough Santa Fe League. The three victories came over Paraclete, Moorpark, and Desert High School. The team's lone league defeat came against defending champions Alemany.

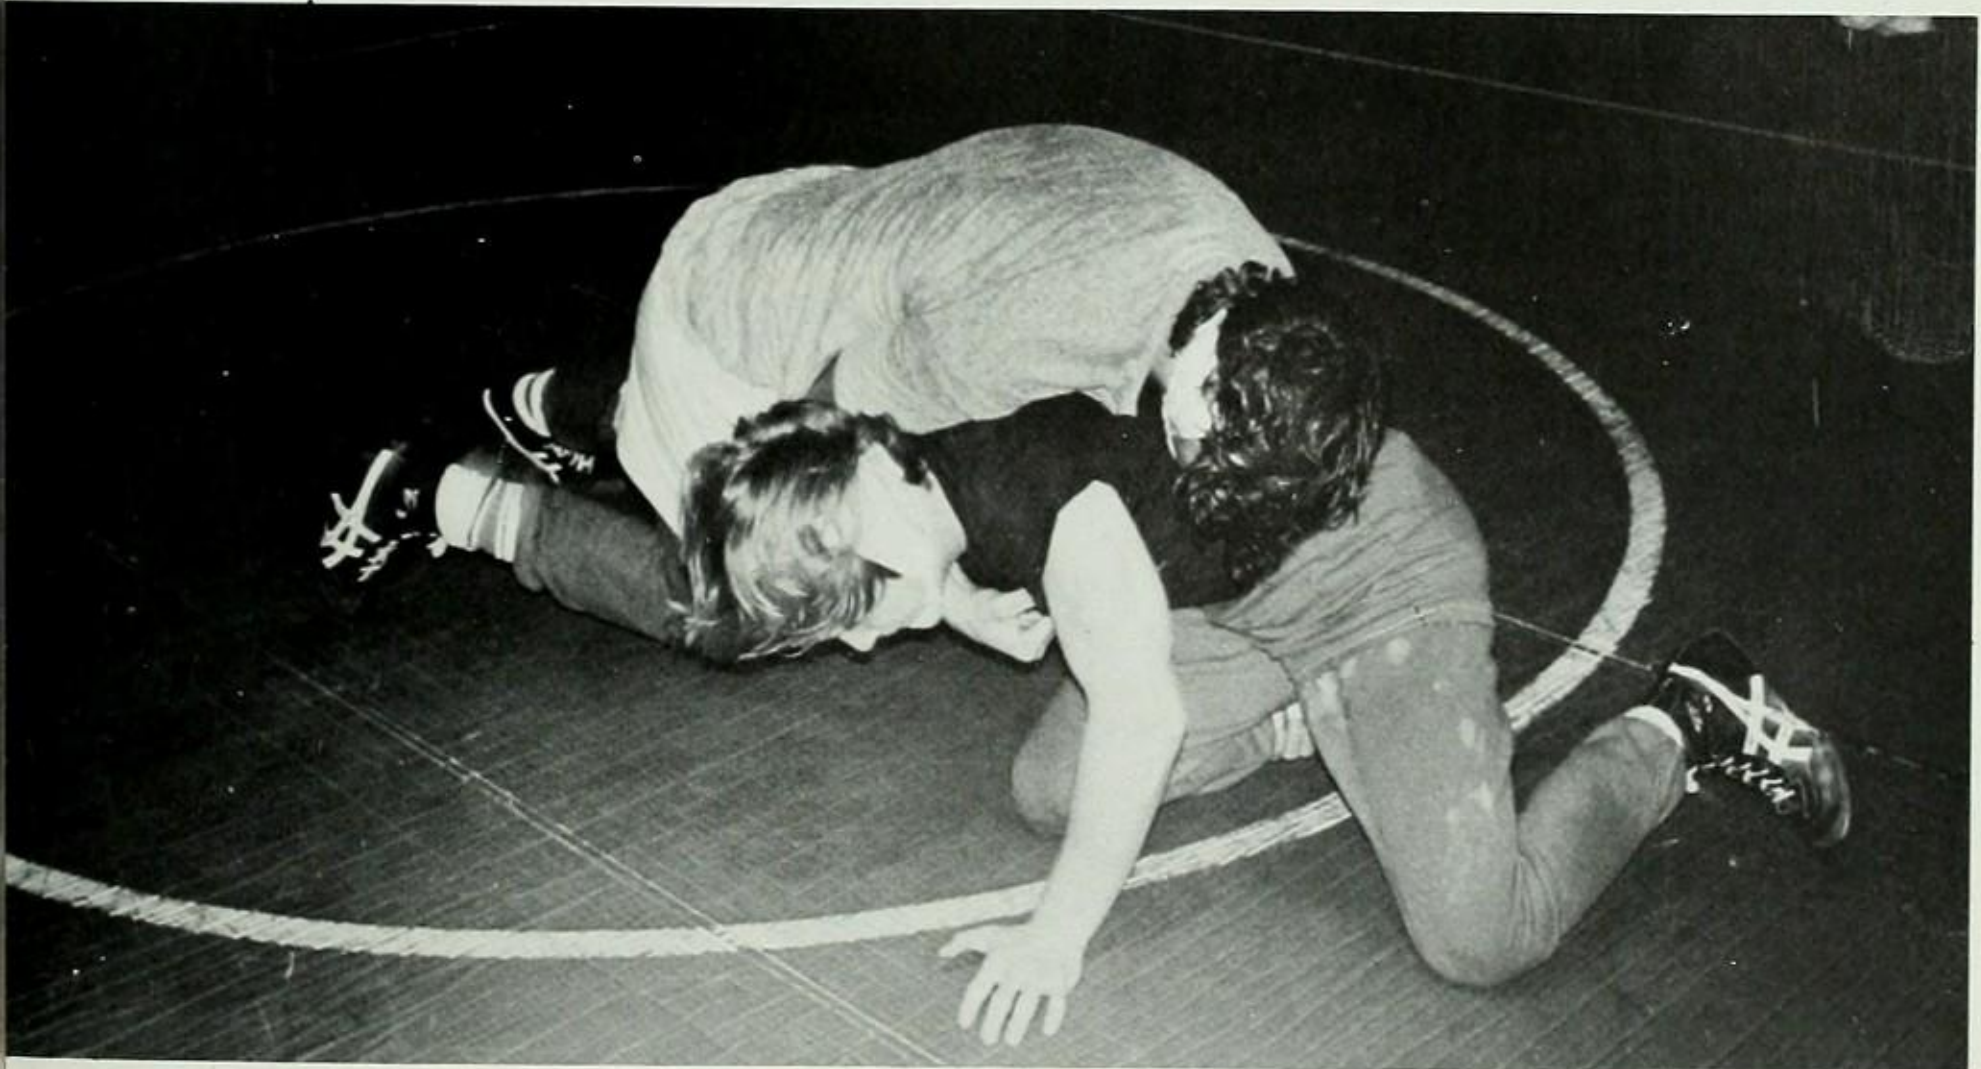

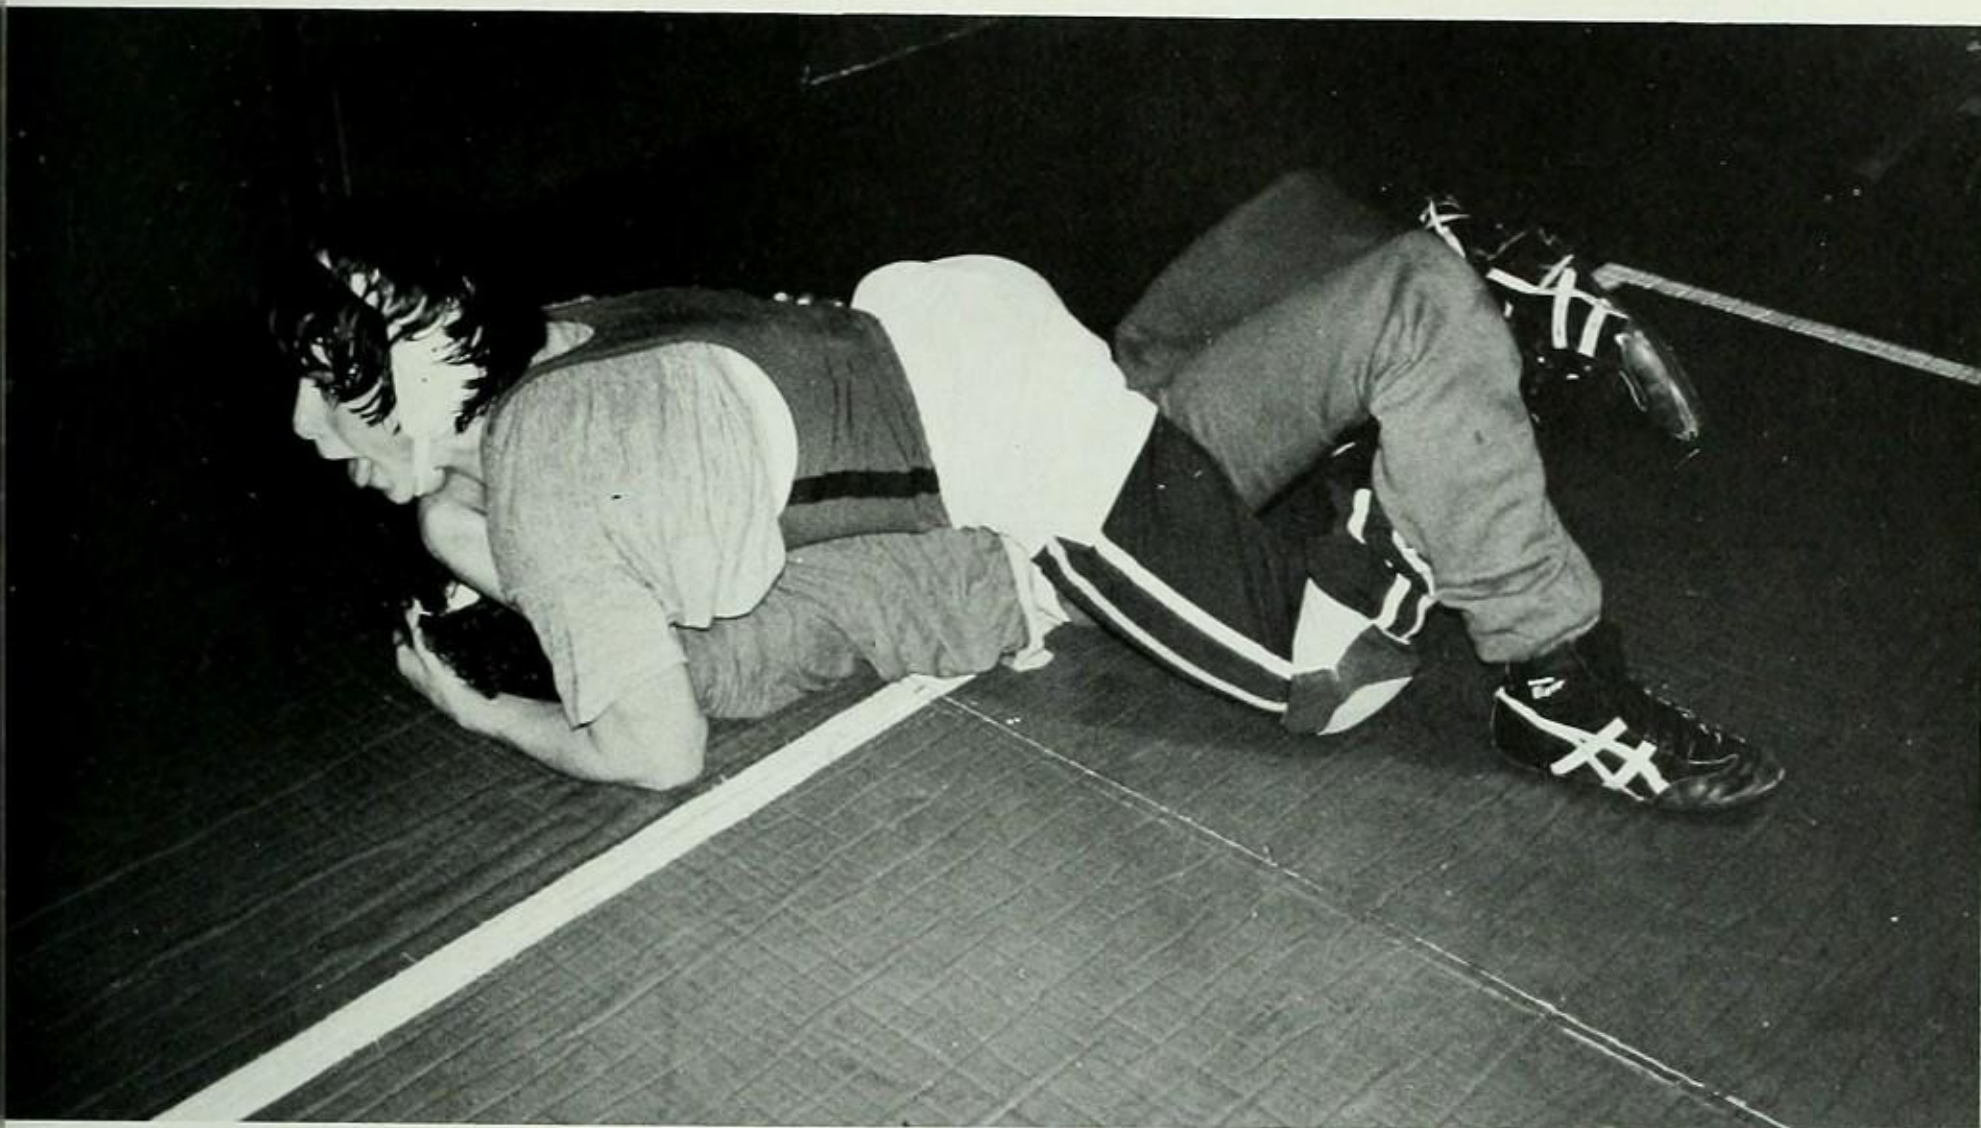

The team placed third, and took five second places in the league tournament. Aaron Bregman, Chal Taylor, Morgan Morgan, Stephen Blum, and Robert Pokelwaldt all finished second. Other wrestlers who competed during the season were Charles Blanc, Jim Schoenburg, Mike Chaslow, Dan Herndon, David Kingsdale, Craig Korbin, Rick Newman, David Neidorf, and David Silverman. Harvard was led by freshman sensation John Meehan who completed the season with an outstanding 12-4 record.

For only the second year of organized wrestling at Harvard, the team has come a long way from an 0-4 record and last place in the league, to a 3-1 record and second place in the league in 1978-1979.

The Harvard wrestling team was selected by a unanimous vote to compete in an even tougher Pioneer League in the 1979-1980 season. This season marked only the beginning for a promising future in Harvard Wrestling.

— David Silverman.

DIVING

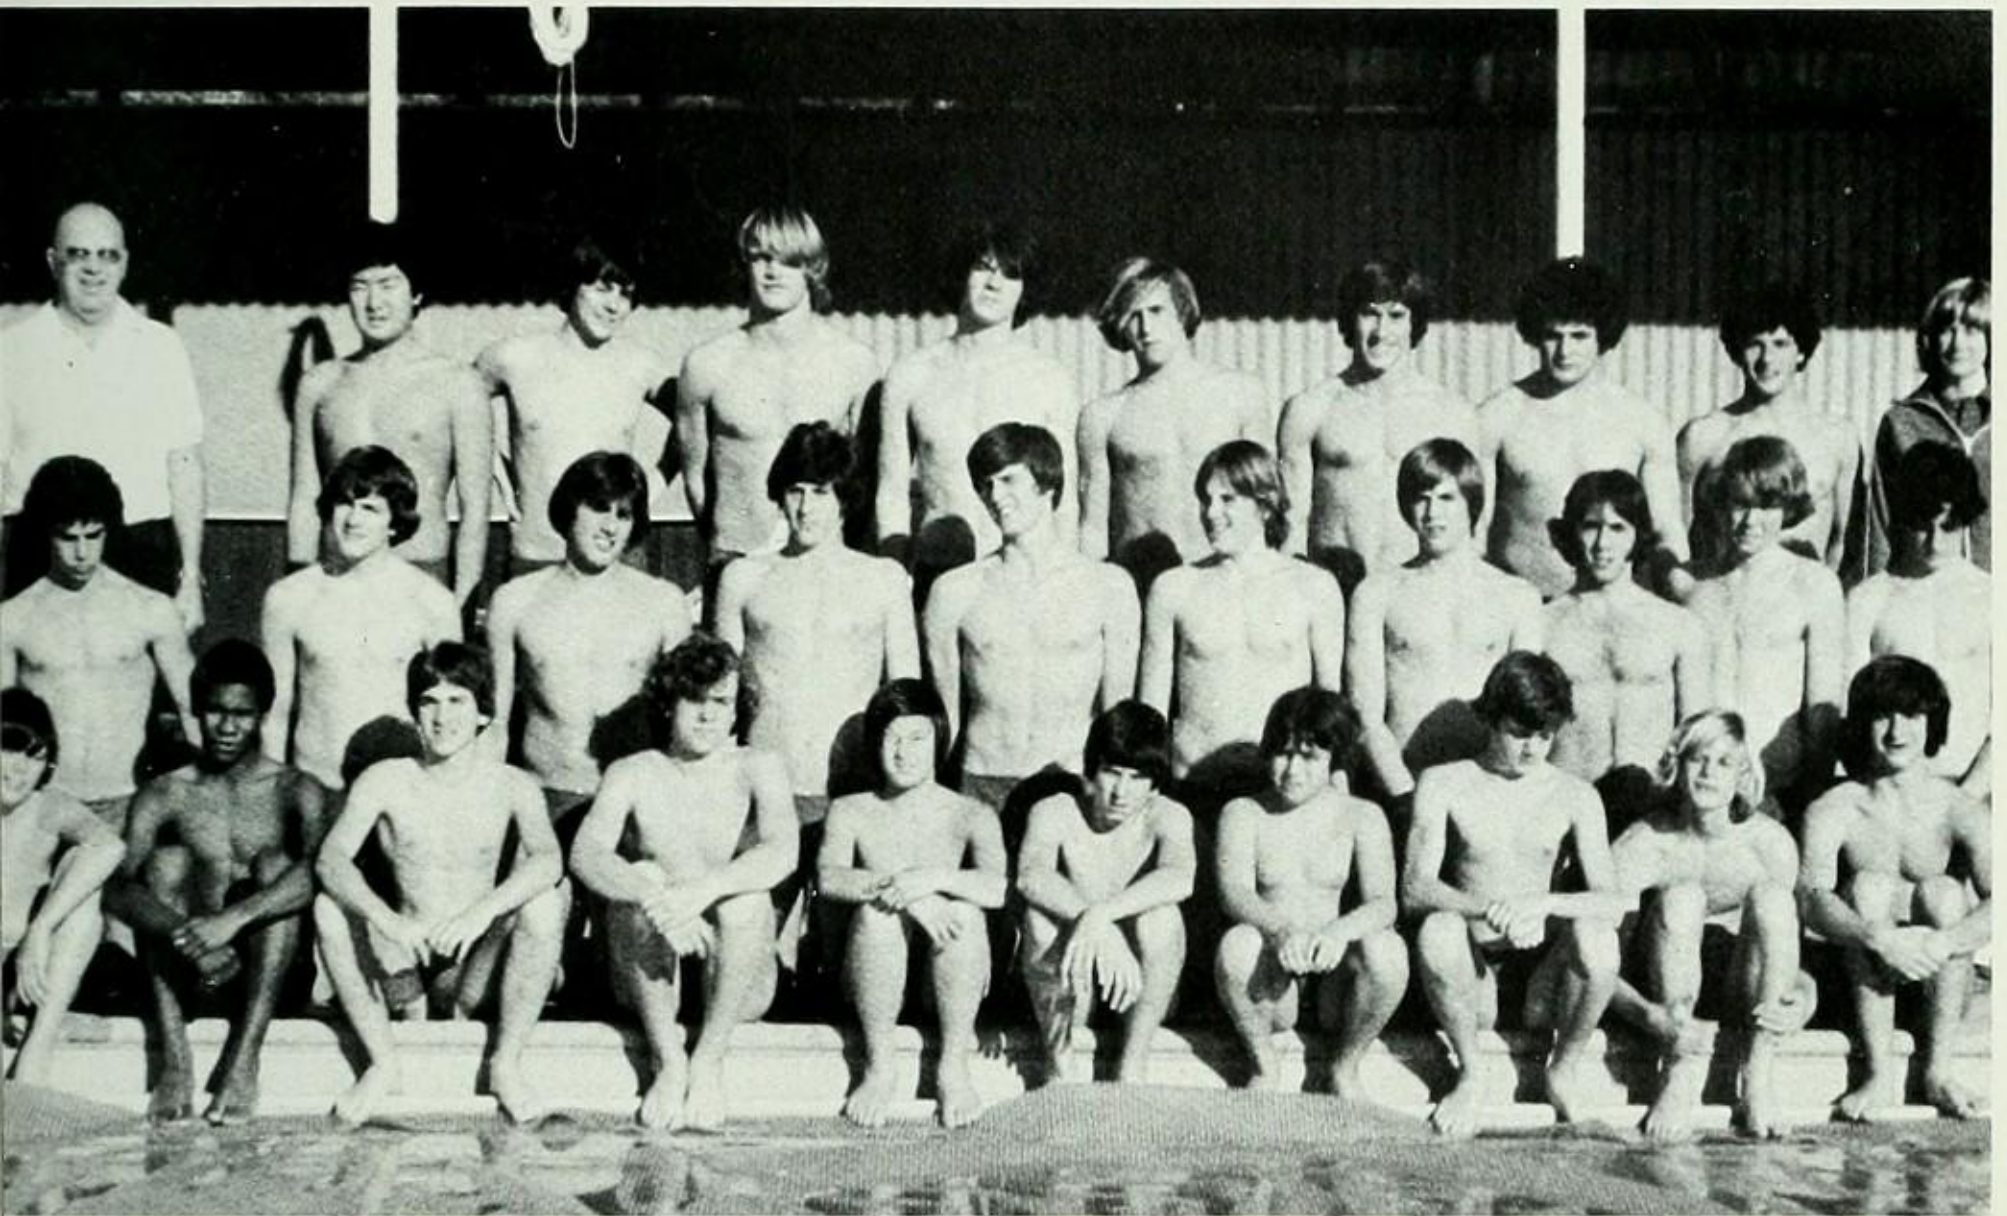

Nathanson, Holland, Reilly.

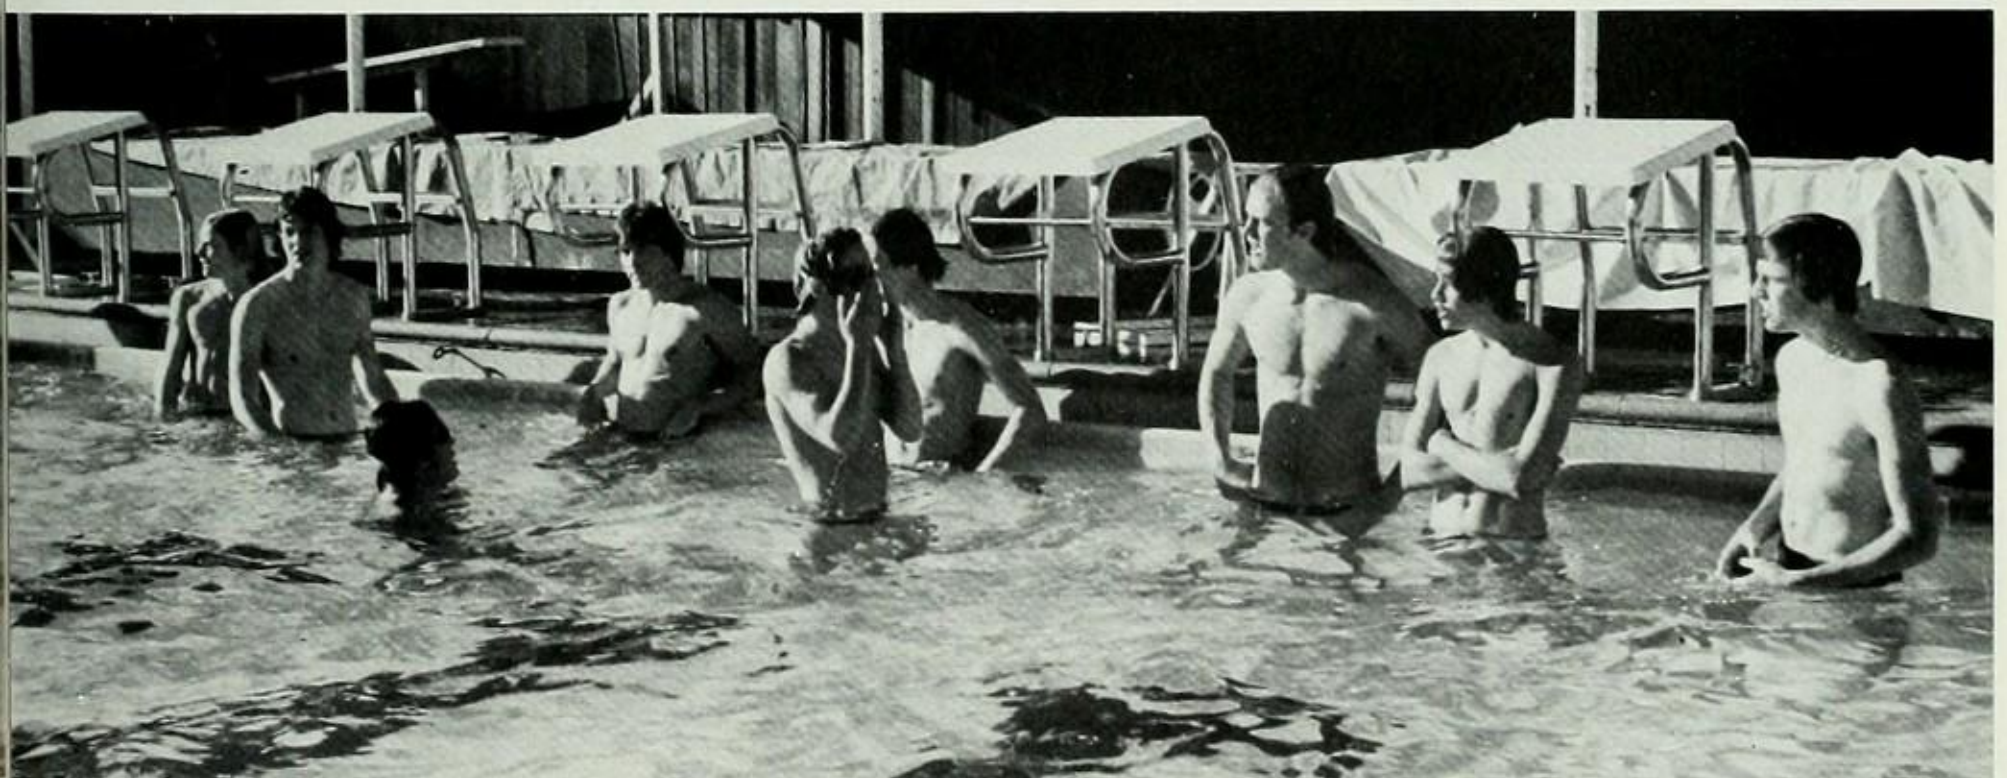

The Harvard Diving team coached by Dan Gold was undefeated in league this season. The team consisted of Seniors Tom Nathanson and Bill Holland, and Freshman Mark Reilly. Nathanson placed first in league and fifth in CIF. Holland placed second in league and third in CIF. Reilly, who had an impressive first year, will lead the team next season and Coach Gold hopes to recruit some new divers as well.

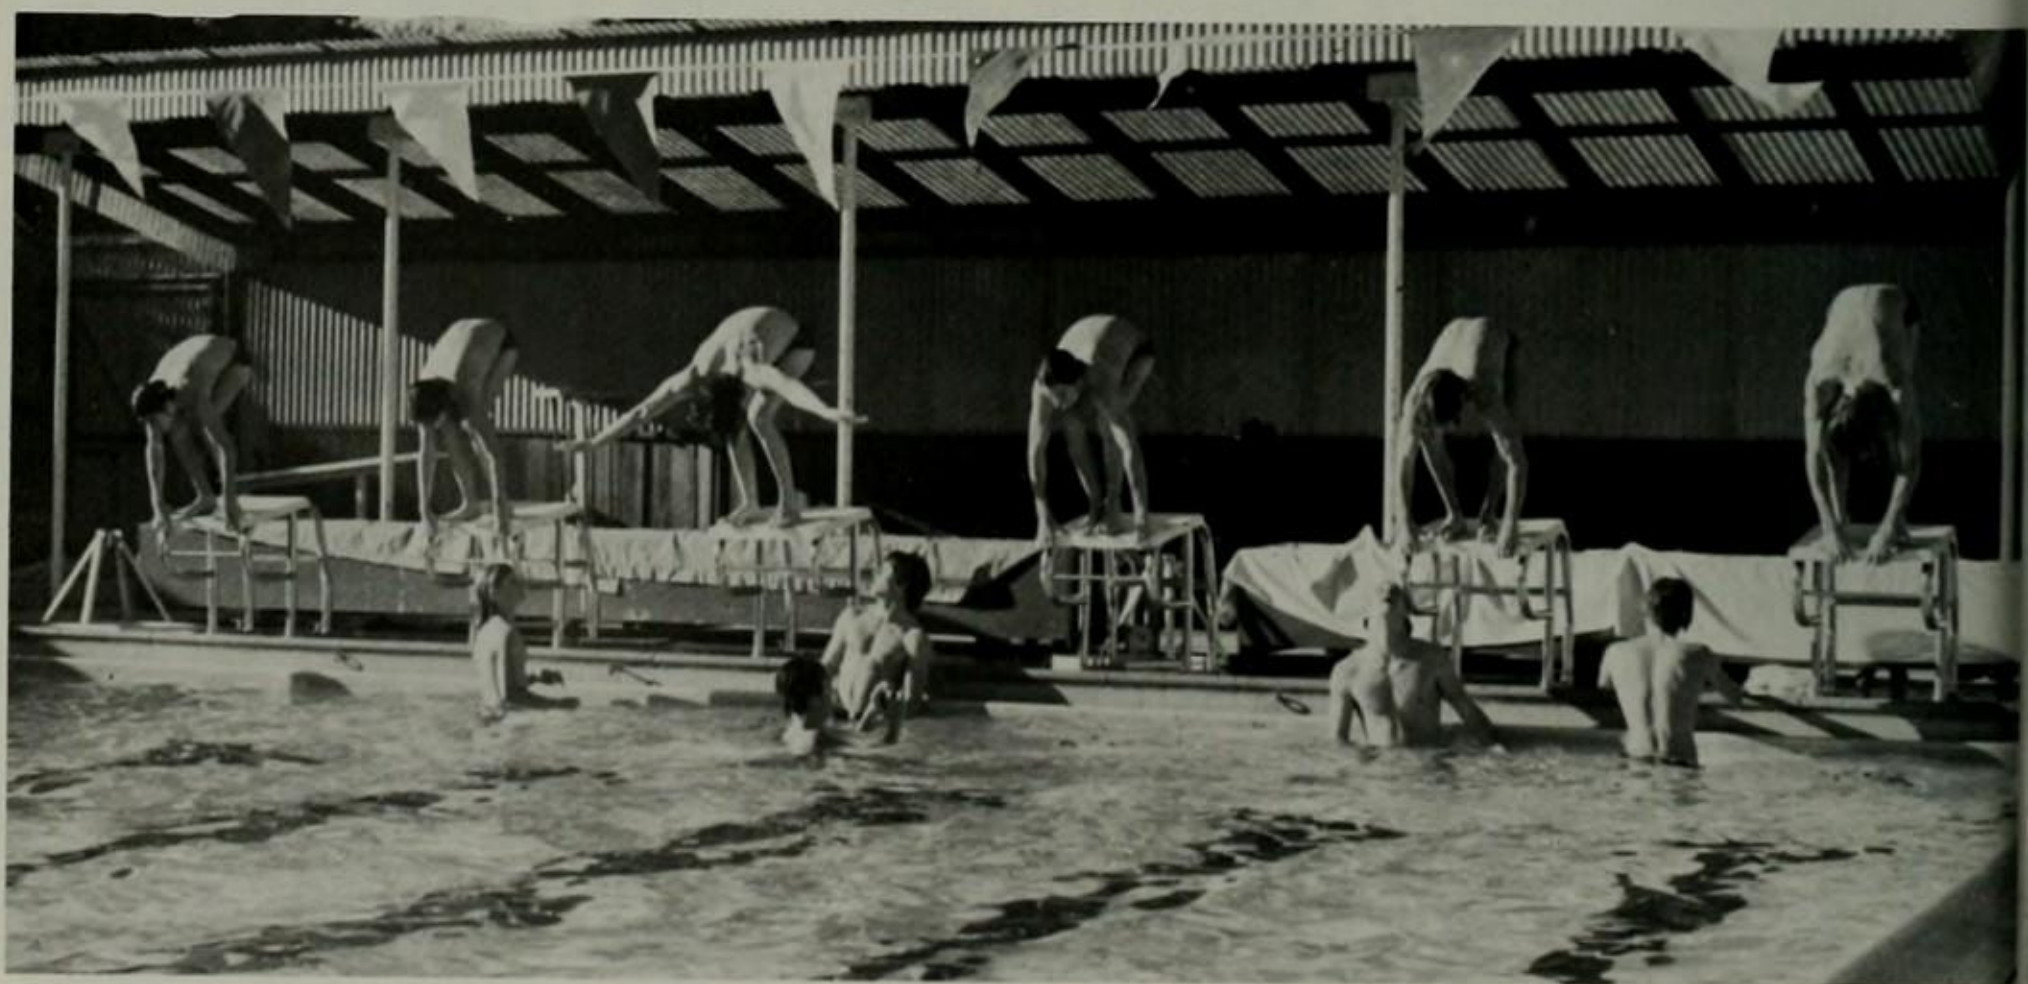

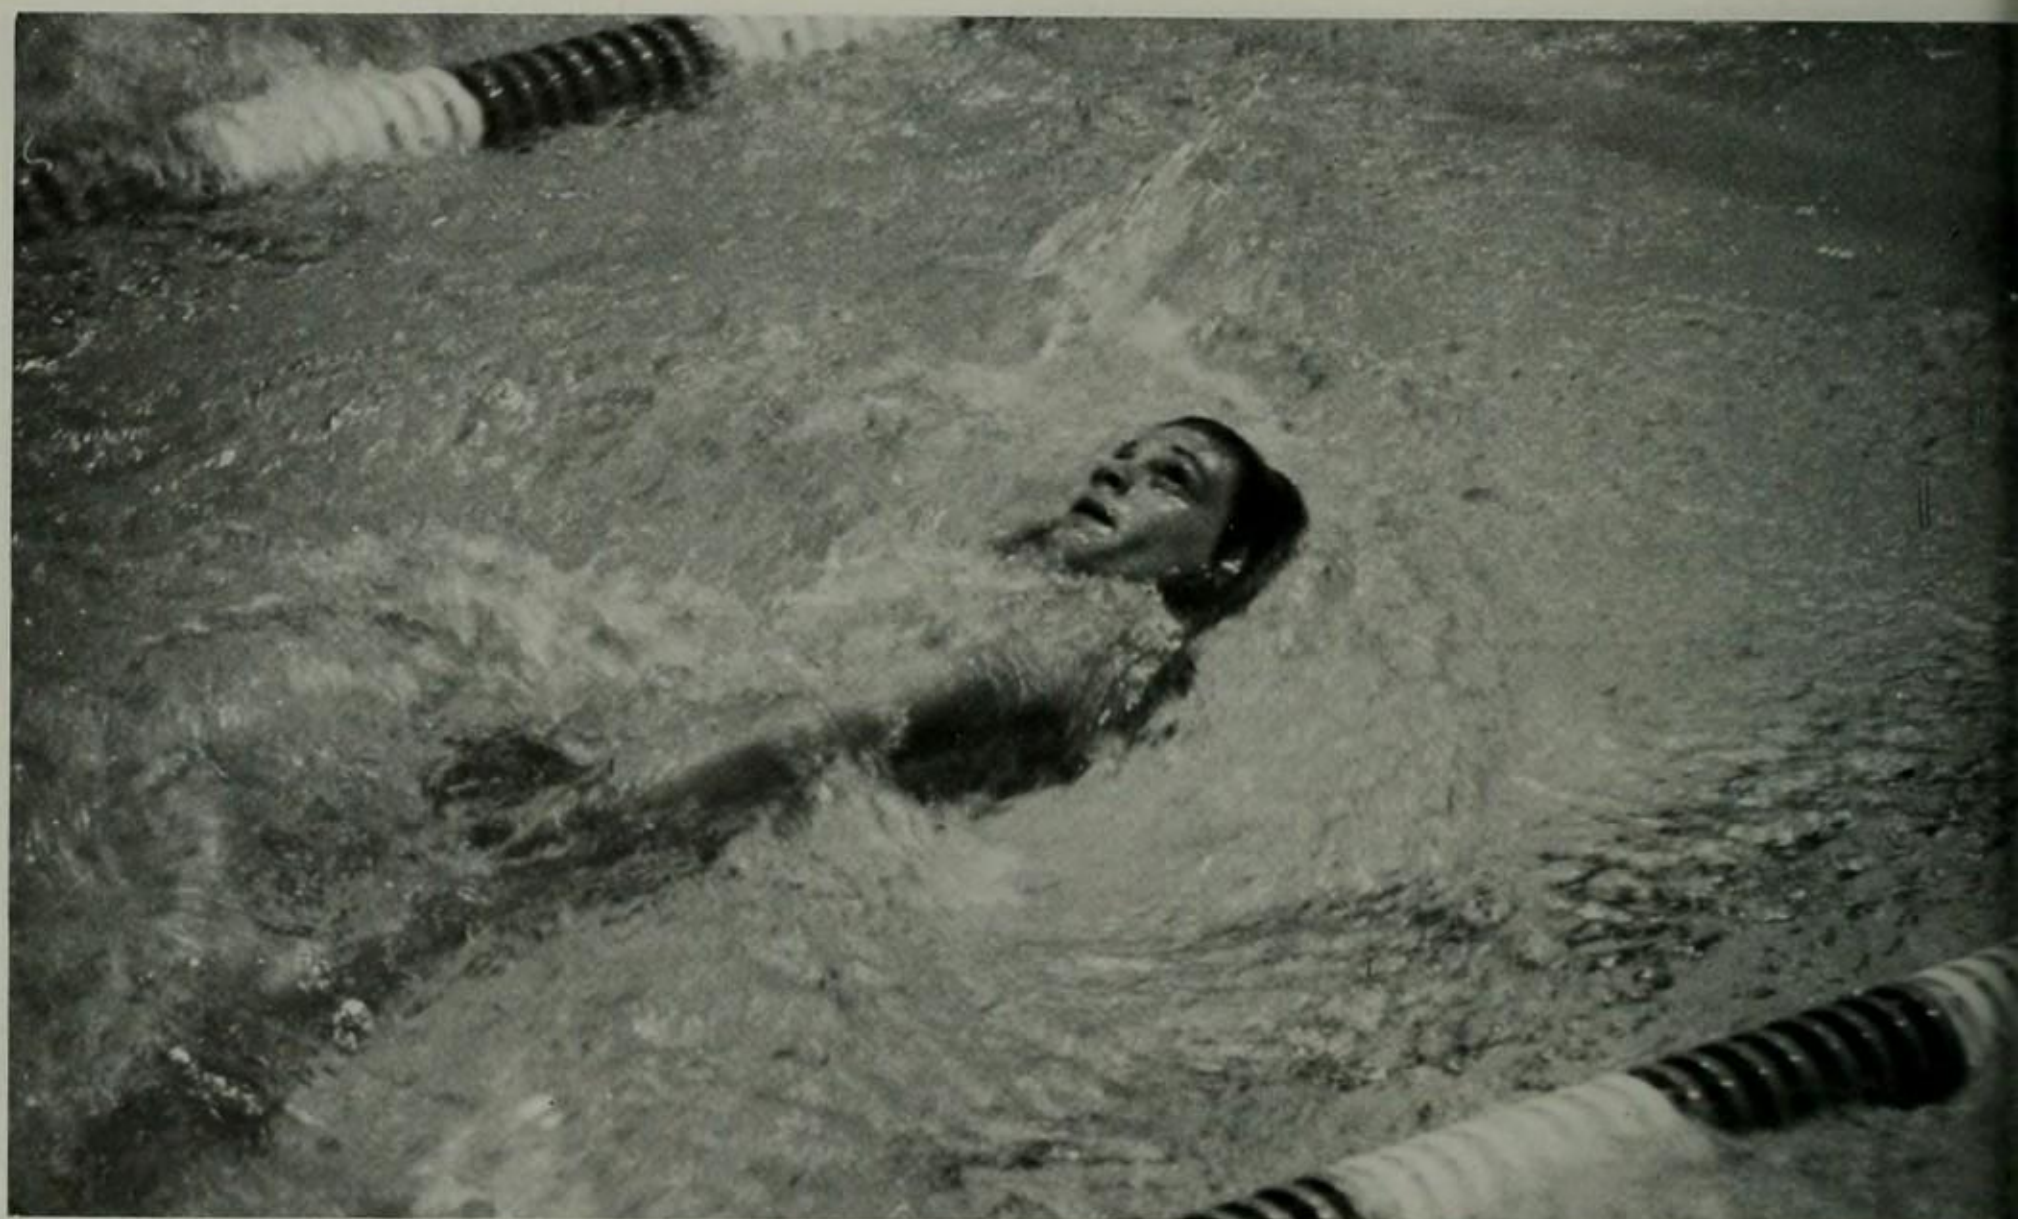

— Bill Holland

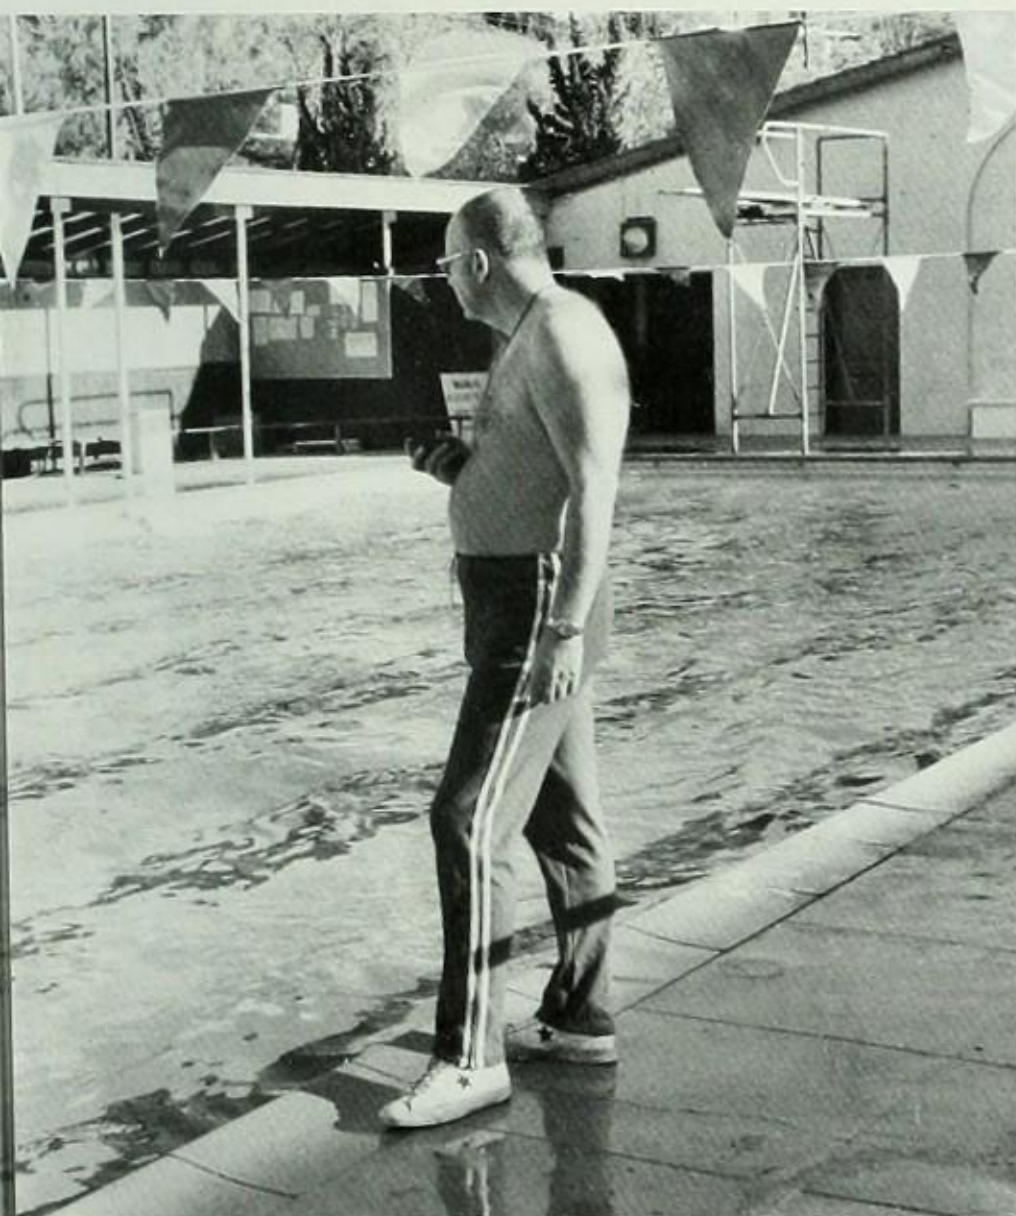

SWIMMING

This year's Harvard Varsity Swim team did far better than anyone expected. Whereas last year, with four active AAU swimmers and one being All-American, the team breezed to a series of easy victories. This year's team had no such advantage, but still managed to finish second in the league. What made the difference was a combination of overwhelming depth and dramatic improvement demonstrated by the younger swimmers.

Among seniors, depth meant the team's top two scorers, Shaun Samuels and Marc Wax; two league champions, Shaun Samuels again and Tom Nathanson; the fourth leading scorer and captain as well as double-medal winner at the League Championship meet, Richie Pops; and the league's second best diver as well as third best diver in 3A CIF, Billy Holland. These five, though not quite at the caliber of last year's individual stars, demonstrated both determination and cohesiveness in making this year one of the best in many years for Harvard Swimming.

Juniors added to the depth with a triple CIF qualifier, the third leading scorer and one of the leading point earners at the League Championship meet, David Seidner. Also coming through for valuable league meet points were Jim Kroger, Richard Mogan, and David Ellis.

The sophomores were a crucial factor in the team's success. The reason: Two swimmers who held four of the team's fastest times, who scored very liberally in the league meets, and who both qualified for CIF's, Steve Romick and Peter Bachrach. Jim Chapman and Kevin Martin, also showed dazzling improvement in gaining valuable points despite lacking an AAU swimming background.

All of these, plus all those who though not top finishers, but amassed a respectable number of points, were what made Harvard's team what it was — a strong contender and a high finisher.

The Frosh-Soph team also enjoyed a good season, finishing second in the dual meet standings. Important here were many sophomores listed above, and especially freshmen MVP Brian Lorber. Also important were Mark Corley, Kenny Pops, David Zimmerman, and Brian Graham.

— Shaun Samuels

"SOPHOMORES."

Unlike most grades, the sophomore class seems to be the least intimidated by the future. College is regarded as a home for the aged. Standardized tests are merely like a bad disease — "sure it exists, but it could never happen to me!" Sophomores begin to show classic signs of cockiness. Perhaps they are just not afraid of the future . . .

The tenth grade is a year of many discoveries. Many discover that they can actually survive Mr. Miller's chemistry class. Everyone discovers that they can memorize all of "Kubla Khan: In Xanadu did Kubla Khan, a stately pleasure . . ." Some even discover girls! Yet, every discovery seems to have its setbacks. One is handed a massive letdown when he is told that Mr. Miller uses the same jokes every year. Unfortunately, nobody really cares if you can rattle off a poem from memory. The worst setback occurs when the sophomore realizes that the tenth grade girl he has discovered, has in turn discovered a senior boy.

The sophomore deals with the problems of the present. But harder times and new challenges exist in the future . . .

'SPRING SPORTS'

The 1979 Harvard Baseball team was finally a contender. Practice started as early as January with game fundamentals and cage hitting with "Jugs." When official practice started in February, the Harvard Baseball team was in mid-season form. This form was evident in Harvard's league opener in which they turned Morningside to take possession of First Place for the first time in a number of years.

The most astute change in the Harvard program was the pre-season schedule. Whereas in 1978, Harvard played such teams as Montclair and Brentwood. This year, Harvard entered the Palos Verdes Tournament and played University High and Torrance. Harvard's pre-season was also colored with a three-day try-out for freshmen and other new hopefuls. The numerous cuts made on both the J.V. and Varsity level showed the Harvard Community that the baseball team was not just here to play, but here to win.

The competitive atmosphere is certainly the product of Coach Ed Blankmeyer who knows baseball almost as well as the Harvard Parents do. Blankmeyer's philosophy of "Pitching and Defense" combined with Harvard's multiple offense has proved to be a winning combination. Harvard has earned the respect of the Pioneer League.

The team was led by Co-Captain and All-League infielder Craig Glick. Glick was certainly the offensive and defensive catalyst. The infield also hailed four-year starter and Co-Captain Andy Kaiser at shortstop. Steve Mitchell and Mike Galef provided solid work at the corners.

The pitching staff was guided by another four-year starter, Steve Riach, who led the team with his menacing fastball and well-balanced curve. The other starter was junior Clark Porter, whose outstanding curve left batters off balance all season. The relief staff included Lee Muller, Hank Stern, and Cody Forbes. Stern was also the team's designated hitter while Forbes started in Right Field.

The left-fielder was the powerful Terry Goldman, whose "Clean-up" hitting first surfaced in Torrance where he slugged two home runs. The center-fielder was sophomore Jeff Pofsky, who started in right as a freshman. Pofsky is certainly the star of the future.

— Jordan Bender

FROSH-SOPH BASEBALL

The 1979 Harvard Track and Field Team, under the direction of newly acquired Coach Larry David, has a bright future ahead. This year's team is expected to carry on the same type of competitiveness that was begun two years ago by Coach Dennis Duva. The team, though not quite as large as last year's team, is equally as talented and spirited. The force behind these high spirits is the enthusiastic and optimistic Coach David. He, stressing the point that "hard work makes winners," has motivated the participants to compete with feeling and intensity. The Varsity is led by such strong runners as Kris Bergen, Spyro Skouras, and Bill Phelps. The Frosh-Soph team has a great deal of strength and shows amazing potential. In view of all this, Track and Field at Harvard has an excellent future.

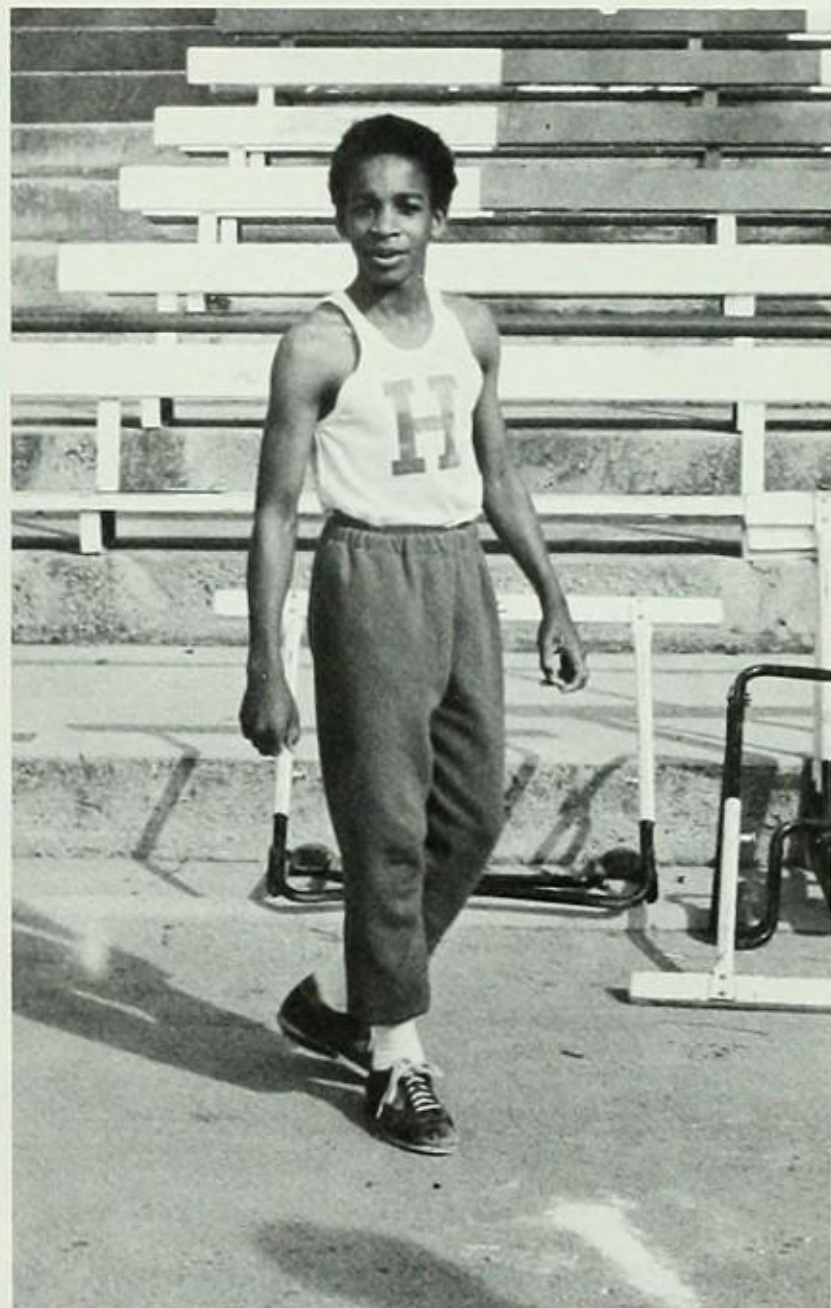

— Geoff Boyd

FROSH-SOPH TRACK

The Harvard Golf Team had quite a respectable season this year. Rotating home bases between Lakeside C.C., Valenica, and Mountain Gate, this year's team improved the record of last year greatly. Leading the team were juniors Jeff Lange, Teiji Kawana, and Scot Lasker while Fred Bender, the only veteran senior on the team, played with fantastic determination. Newcomer Marc Block also contributed to the team effort, while youth was represented by sophomore Koji Kawana. Under the dedicated leadership of Coach Gary Thran, who organized a very competitive schedule played on tough layouts such as Riviera, the team shot its way to a very admirable season.

— Jeff Lange

The tennis team this year is a young one again. The team is led by junior Bruce Pompan, along with Captain David Pomerantz, senior David Naylor, junior Cary Mells, sophomores Jeff Christianson and Eric Houseman, and freshmen Doug Winter, Bobby Piken, and John Struzzo.

So far this year, with the new coach Forrest Stewart, the tennis team has developed more team spirit than ever before. The team's record reflects this spirit with five wins and one loss. For the first time in five years, Harvard defeated San Mario. The players eagerly look forward to league playoffs where the new team, led by a new coach, can really test its abilities. The J.V. under the direction of Carloyn Martin, has also won its first few matches. The J.V. is led by Del Niles, a sophomore, Mike Daniels, a junior, and Aaron Bregman, also a junior.

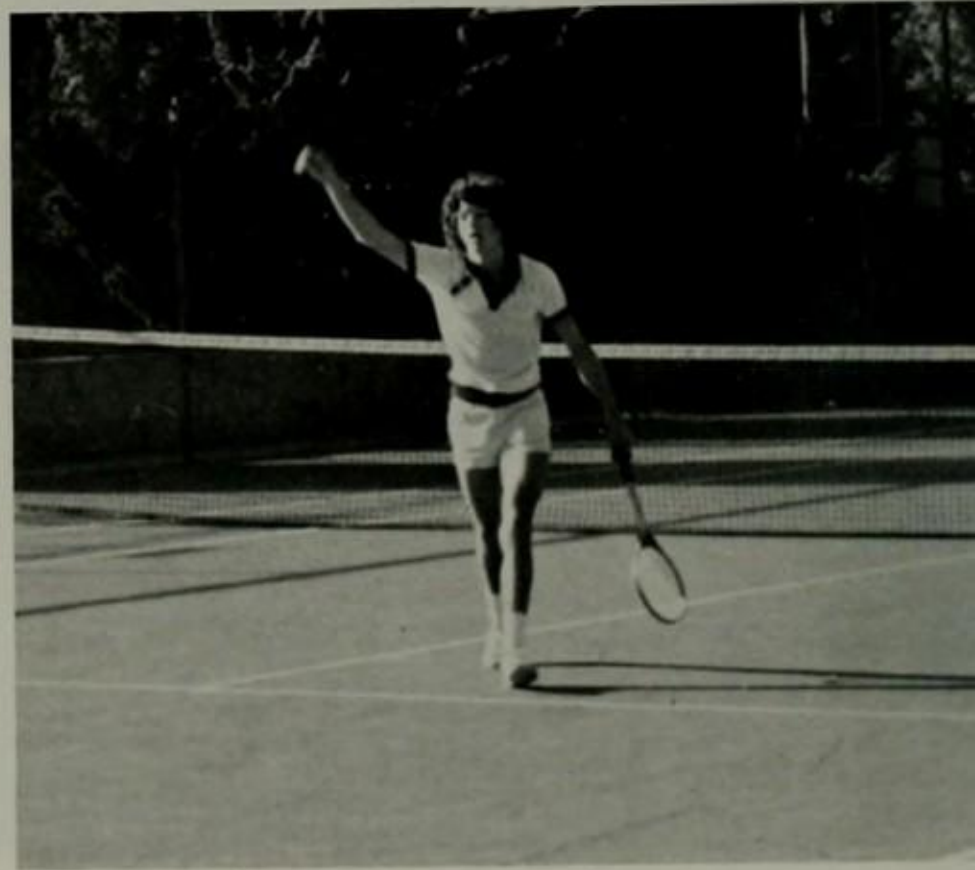

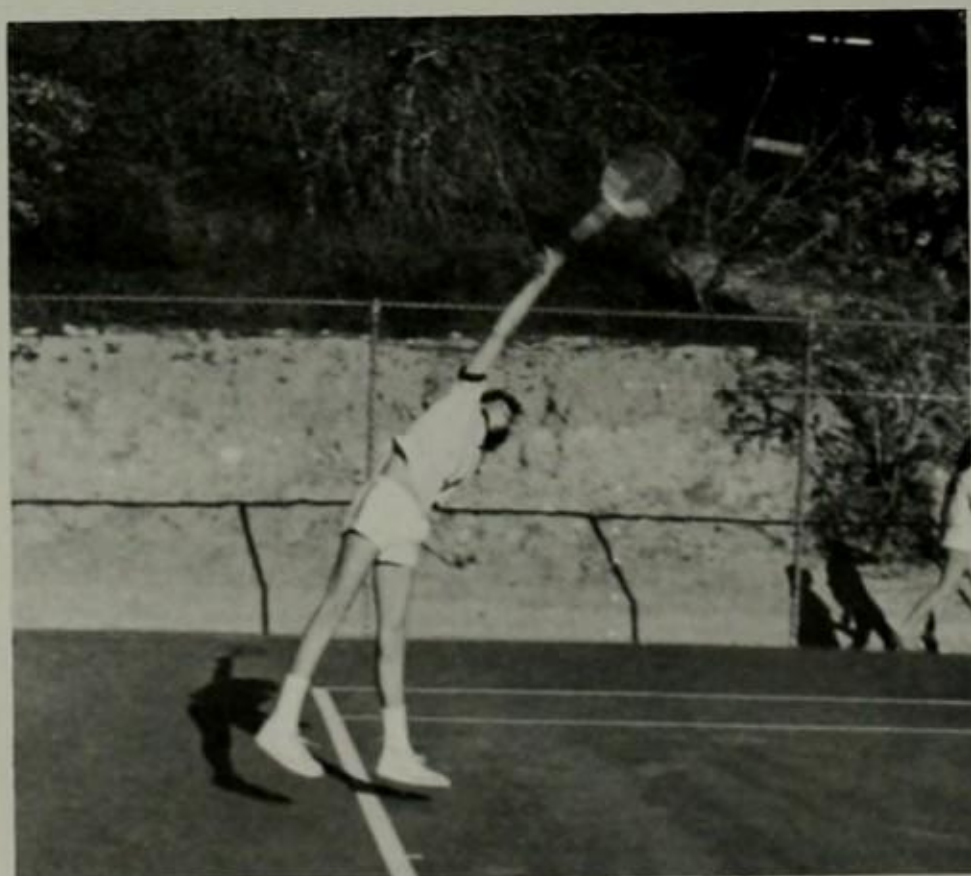

— David Pomerantz and David Fields

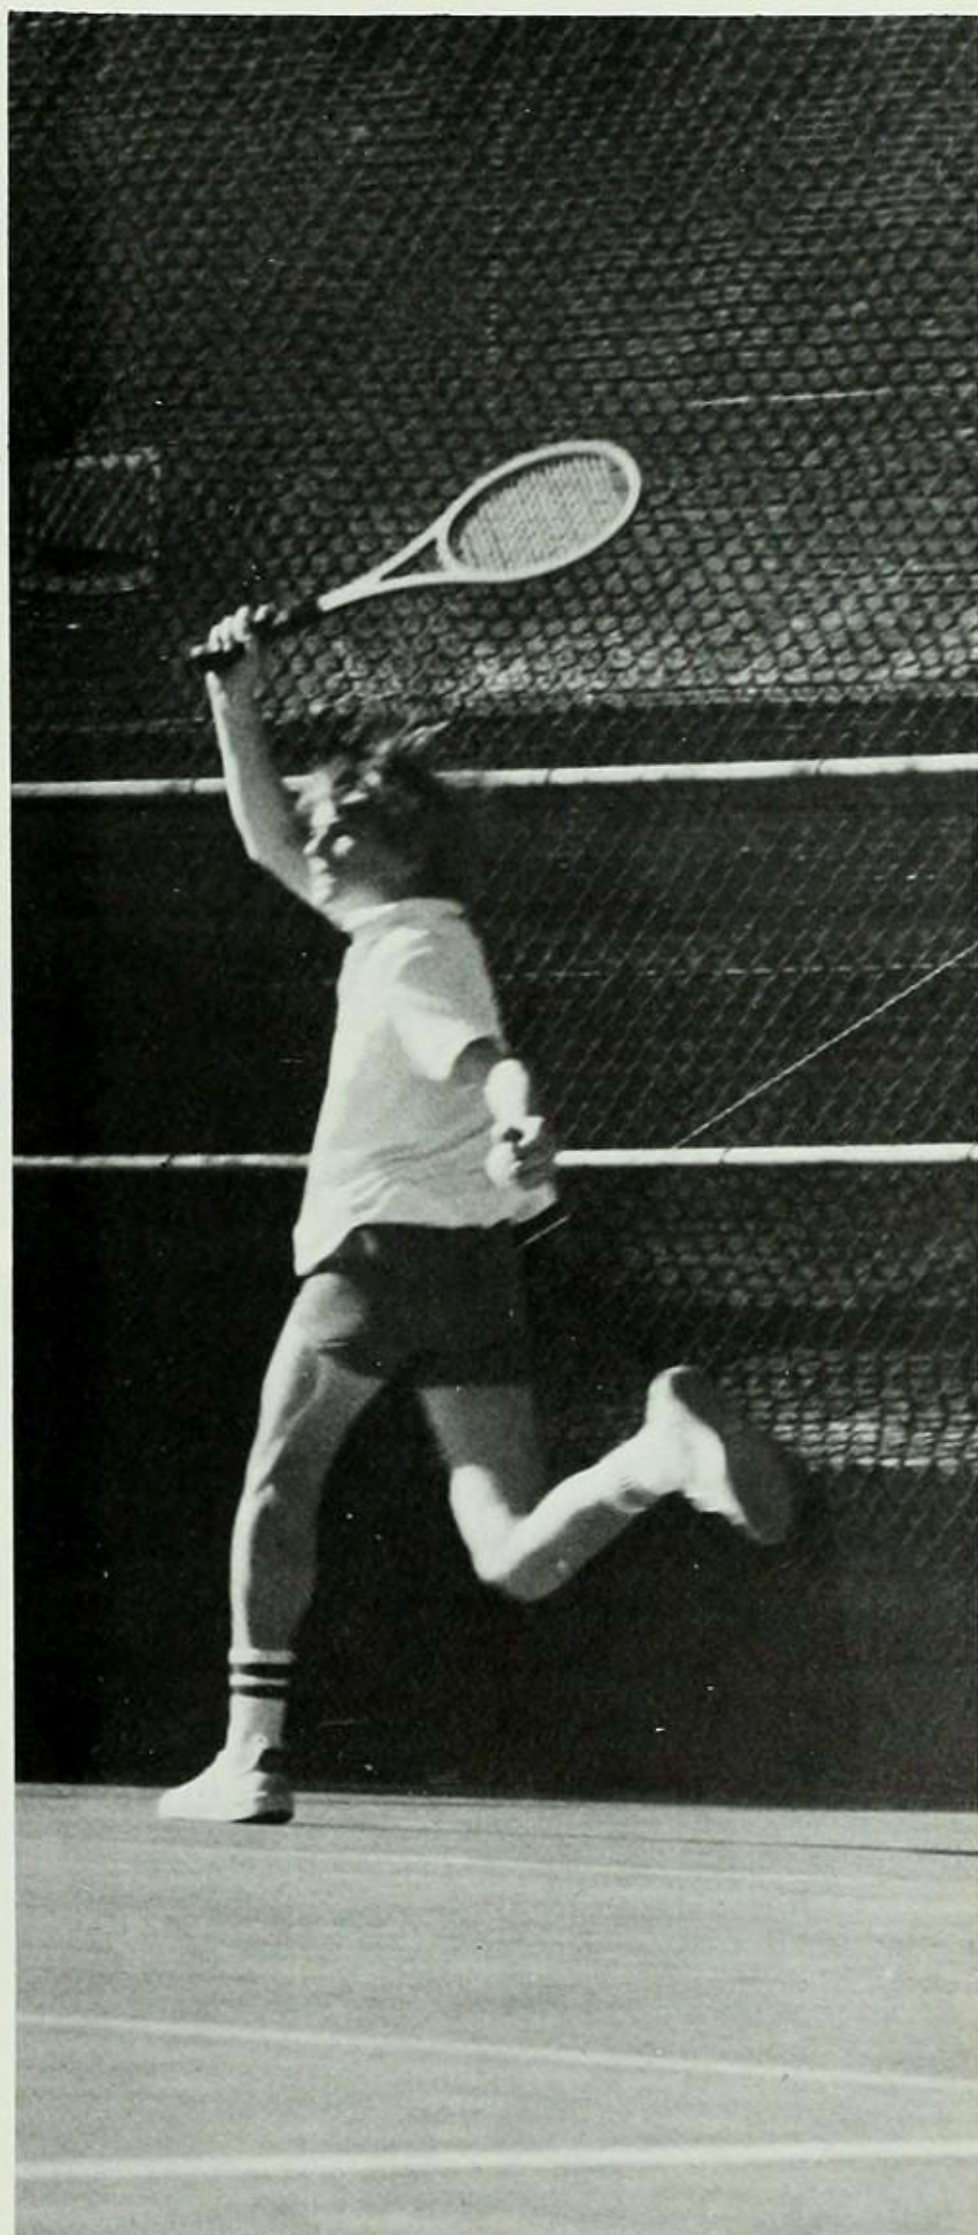

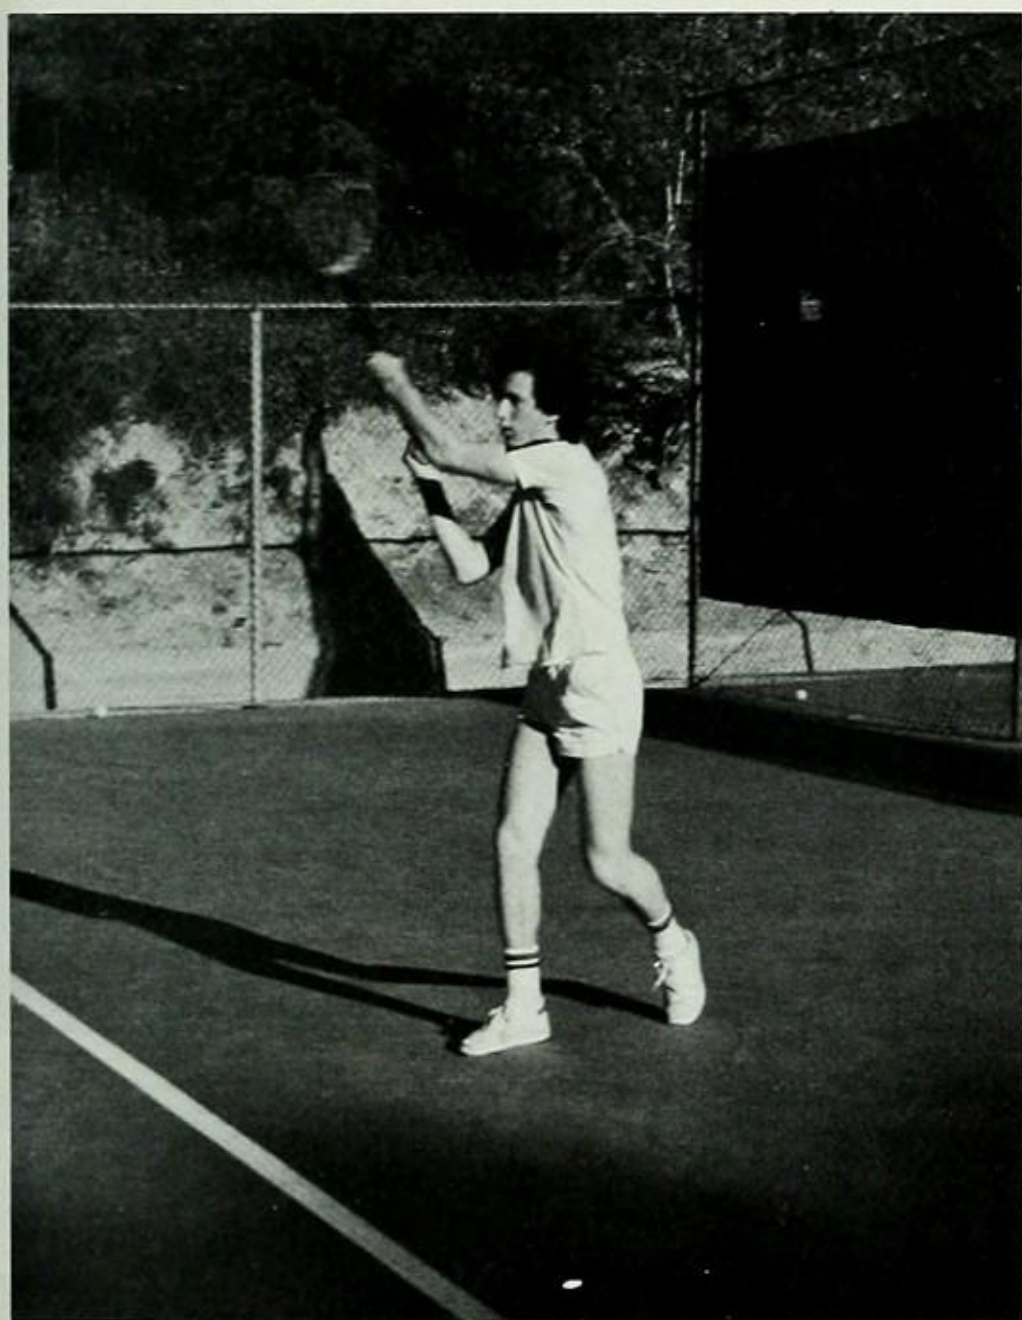

J.V. TENNIS

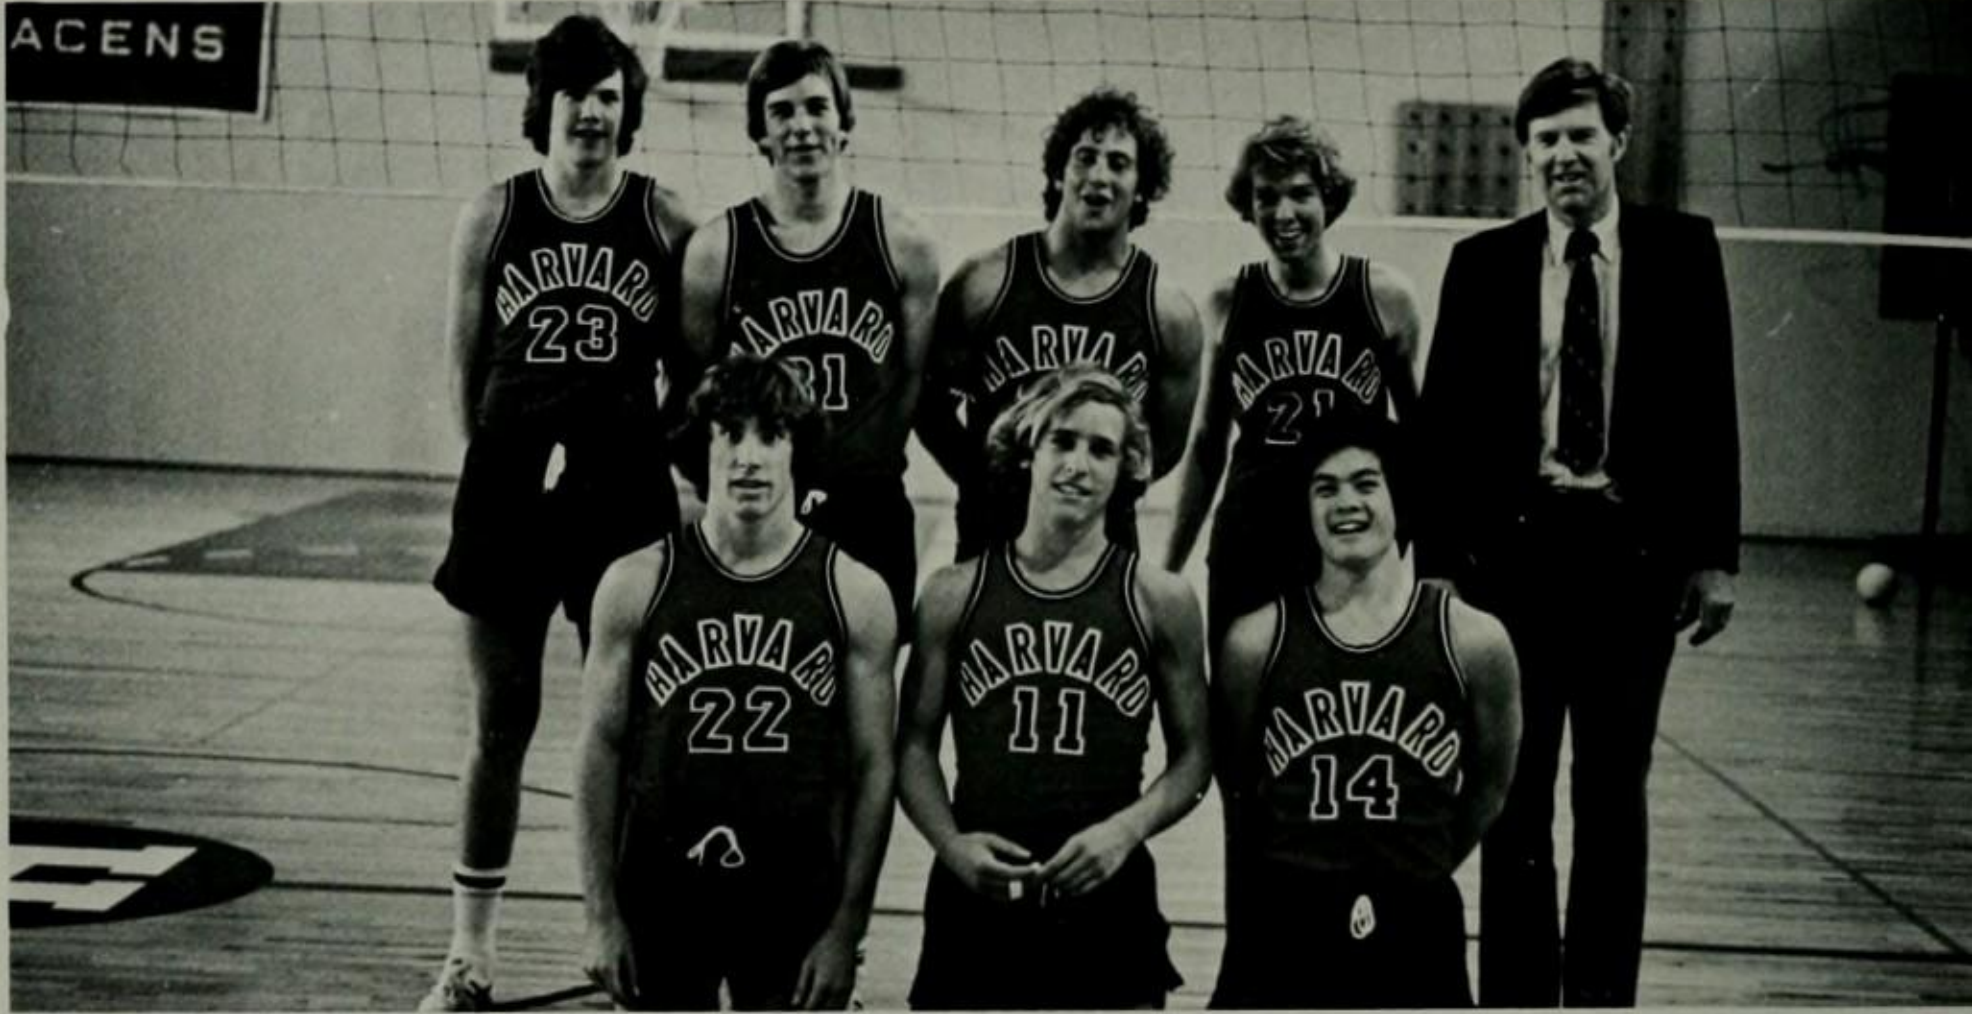

Top Row: Frank, Williams, Schine, Klein, Coskey, Coach Martin. Bottom Row: Kinder, Burr, Vein, Goldfarb, Weissmann, Sisskind.

ACENS

J.V. VOLLEYBALL

In reaching the ninth grade, the Harvard student has outgrown the domain of the Lilliputians. This growth is both physical and mental. His mind is constantly expanding and accepting greater responsibilities for his future . . .

The transition between the eighth and ninth grades is probably the greatest one must face at Harvard. One is no longer a “puny” lower schooler. He becomes an influential member of the school community. To accomodate this rise in stature, the student is given a fitting title. He does not just become an upper schooler — he becomes a “freshman.” He can walk head and shoulders above everyone else through the Rugby foyer. He is now big enough to handle two hour finals and mature enough to accept the fact that his grades count for college. However, leaving the era of flag football, the freshman is faced with one burden he may not be able to carry — twenty pounds of football pads during “hell week.”

Thus, the freshman enters a new facet of life. He begins the second leg of his journey through Harvard. This journey leads all the way to the future . . .

“EIGHTH GRADE”

The eighth grade marks an awakening out of innocence. They have lasted one year and are ready to accept new challenges. They are no longer the new kids on the block and survival is no longer their main concern. They can begin to ponder the future . . .

In their own microcosm, the eighth graders are on top of the world. They still have some of the innocence of the year before that will let them get away with as much as they can. They also have a new sense of maturity that makes sure they do not venture into the Senior Parking Lot. But most importantly, eighth graders have a new sense of responsibility. It is their responsibility to initiate the new “scrubs.” It is their responsibility to govern and patrol the Rugby foyer. Still, eighth graders seem to be constantly asking questions — “Does Mrs. Lippman really know how to coach eighth grade basketball?”

Eighth graders must learn to like their year at the top of the lower school. Next year marks the start of the cycle all over again and they will once again be on the bottom. At the present, they do not see the many struggles in their future . . .

COLDWATER PIPELINE

Vol. vi No. 9

Harvard School-No. Hollywood, Calif.

JANUARY 18, 1979

Bottom Row: Lewis, Bowmer, McDonough, Shinbane. Middle Row: Sussman, Forman, Josephson, Sibley. Top Row: Witt, Levy, Woythaler, Miss Moser. Missing: Samuels, Andrews, Bender, Zane.

Levy says farewell

In saying farewell as editor of this illustrious publication, I want to take a look at the goals which I set last March when I took over from Greg Stern.

I wanted to produce a more interesting, more regular, and more informative newspaper. The staff was enthusiastic about his goal and we managed to publish an issue every three weeks last year. We tried to publish articles that were about people and events others cared about and that were not six weeks old.

We have improved the appearance of the newspaper. That is something that may not be apparent, but it does make a difference. We had trouble with the computer, but we have worked that problem out. And we have improved the use of photographs and other artwork.

Journalistically we have made progress. The National Scholastic Press Association gave us a relatively high rating, which included favorable comments about our improvement.

These editors deserve special recognition for the long hours, including many days of more than 12 hours non-stop, that they have put in: News Editors Eric Sibley and Brian Wright, Sports Editors Shaun Samuels and Bill Gleason, Photography Editor Les Josephson, and especially Assistant Editor Ben Woythaler. Woythaler's enthusiasm and support is probably the only thing which has remained constant since we first became editors.

And Miss Suzy Moser, our faculty advisor, spent many long hours — including liquid-paper-ing 1,000 mistakes one weekend, watching over a malfunctioning computer, and cursing at a broken-down typesetting machine — helping us out. Without her patience, all of our work might have been useless.

ACTION RECOMMENDED

BY ERIC SIBLEY

The student council has suggested some measures which might help stop the recent theft problem on campus. The council met for a special meeting on Friday, January 26, to discuss the matter which has already led to the expulsion of three students and includes two major school property thefts.

Council members suggested ways to prevent both large and small scale school theft. Though no specific conclusion was made, several of the suggestions were very helpful.

LARGE SCALE THEFT

Recently there have been two major school thefts from the Science Department and the Gymnasium. The council first devoted its discussion towards the problem of large scale theft.

It was brought to the attention of the council members that the school has employed one security guard to patrol the entire school grounds at night. The council agreed that more security measures should be taken. It was suggested that more security guards be hired or the entire school be enclosed with a heavy duty fence and that the gates at each entrance be locked at night.

Council member Jeff Colin brought up the possibility of installing an alarm system in the building around the campus. He pointed out the possibility that it might be cheaper in the long run to pay for an alarm system than to hire several security guards to patrol the entire school.

First Prefect Bill Gleason made it clear during the council meeting that Harvard students were probably not involved in either of the major school thefts. However, he did tell the council that theft on a smaller scale among students was becoming an issue on campus.

STUDENT THEFT A CAMPUS ISSUE

Most of the council members agreed that campus theft was increasing. The council reinforced the main point of Bill Gleason's student body address which was to encourage classmates to show more respect for one another.

Council member Jordan Bender stated that everyone should at least make an effort to return forgotten property to the lost and found in the bookstore and other members suggested that everyone on campus should be more responsible for his own property and not leave it unattended.

Towards the end of the meeting the issue of reporting classmates to the administration arose. Most of the members doubted that students would report a friend that they might see stealing another person's property.

SPEECH AND DEBATE

Every year of competitive forensics at Harvard outshines all previous years, and this one has been no exception. Harvard's forensic strength and quality have expanded as we continue to win almost every Grand Sweepstakes award, constantly acquire new members, points, and degrees, win top individuals awards at prestigious tournaments, and maintain our status as the largest squad in the nation.

This year's standard of victory was begun at the National Tournament held in June at Northwestern University. Eric Greenfeld was selected Outstanding Representative of House III of Student Congress, and John Bunzel made his third appearance at nationals by winning fourth place in Dramatic Interpretation.

Our debate squad, under Graduate Assistant Mitch Guthman, forged its way to continual victories. At the UCLA Invitational, Daniel Goodman and Andrew Yamamoto won first place in Varsity Debate. Ben Sherwood, Daniel Goodman, and Tom Reeks won top Debate Speaker Awards. At Tustin, Daniel Goodman and Ben Sherwood won second place. The USC Invitational brought more Harvard victory as Henry Weissman and Bart Williams succeeded to win the whole tournament. Brian Wright and Jeff Horwitz advanced to quater-finals. And for the fifth year in a row, Harvard won Grand Sweepstakes.

At the Loyola-Redlands Swing Tournament, Jeff Horwitz and Henry Weissman achieved second place, Ben Sherwood and Andy Yamamoto achieved fourth in the combined Swing Award, and Henry won eighth place Speaker Award. Next, the team of Ben Sherwood and Tom Reeks distinguished themselves by winning the La Mirada Varsity Debate Tournament. Joey Plager and Ben Sherwood won the Burbank Invitational.

This year marked something new for Harvard's debate squad: many teams decided to travel throughout the country in search of competition. Ben Sherwood and Tom Reeks went to the University of Utah Invitational coming in first place and winning first and second speaker respectively. Jeff Horwitz and Kirby Tanimura took second place at the Lewis and Clark Tournament in Oregon, and also won first and second speaker respectively. Even more distant, teams traveled to Marquette, Wisconsin, Philadelphia, and Cambridge. Henry Weissman and Bart Williams advanced to the semi-final round at Marquette. At the Harvard University Tournament, Andy Yamamoto and Eric Nishizawa advanced to the octo-final round, and Andy Yamamoto won the second place speaker award. At the Spring League Tournament, Brian Wright and Jeff Horwitz were the only Harvard team to be undefeated.

The scope of Harvard Varsity victories includes the realm of Individual Events. Michael Walker won second place at USC in Dramatic Interpretation, and at Occidental has won a triple first place in Dramatic Interpretation, Extemporaneous Speaking and Impromptu Speaking. Spencer Beglarian took first place in Humorous Interpretation at La Mirada, third place in Dramatic Interpretation at USC, and first place in both these events at Occidental. Ben Sherwood and David Fried each won a first place ranking in Impromptu Speaking, Ben at USC and David at Occidental.

To complement and in the future to replace the Varsity squad, a crowd of eager and talented novices has been winning everywhere they've gone, from Louisville, to League, to Occidental. Many have won first place trophies. Aram Kezirian Jr., Cecil Onodera, Mark Lilly, Scott Lasker, Robert Lifson, Steve Smith, Willie Sobel, Stuart Raphael, Peter Siphron, Cary Mells, John Thaler, Alan Daniels, Doug Winter, David Wolf, Eric Weinstein, Geoffrey Ghose, Doug Brown, among many other successful Harvard novices too numerous to mention, have blazed their way to forensic points, degrees, trophies, skill, and experience.

In addition to the labor and talents of the Harvard Competitors, there is one reason for Harvard's success: our coach, teacher, advisor, and friend Tedd Woods. His boundless enthusiasm, commitment, and resiliency are the ultimate source of Harvard's forensic victories and the reason that future forensic success will outstrip even this year's record.

The most exciting and rewarding tournament of this year has been the District Tournament National Qualifier. This year Harvard has qualified more competitors to Nationals than ever before. Ben Sherwood has qualified in Extemporaneous Speaking; Mike Walker in Dramatic Interpretation; and Robby Helperin in Humorous Interpretation. And in a first for Harvard since 1972, Harvard has qualified two debate teams to Nationals by closing out the final round in this National Qualifier, but only one team is allowed to be sent to Nationals. The two teams were Henry Weissmann and Bart Williams; Brian Wright and Daniel Goodman. The team chosen to represent Harvard is Brian Wright and Daniel Goodman.

SEVENTH GRADE

The changes one undergoes during his six years at Harvard are remarkable. Seventh graders enter the school innocent and leave anything but innocent. Yet, are these changes for the better? Do these seventh graders eventually leave prepared for the future . . .

There is a silence throughout the school. Most of the students are absorbing new facets of knowledge in the classroom. In the library, the silence is momentarily lifted by a paper airplane which has made its way to the librarian's desk. At the lunch table, a student's meal is interrupted by a hand reaching for his half-eaten sandwich "Feen-eeshed?" Suddenly, a piercing bell marks a fire drill. The student taking an A.P. English exam puts down his pen with a sigh of relief. The student playing Frisbee during a free period mutters a word of disgust. A seventh grader questions innocently "Is there really a fire?" Panning across the football field, the seniors have begun a football game waiting to be dismissed. On the forty yard line, the seventh graders are in a neat little row. Their clothes are even coordinated!

Harvard must cause great changes in the student which makes him wear matching clothes in the seventh grade and torn bathing suits with topsiders as a senior. But one must admit that Harvard really does prepare the student for the future . . .

IF

IF you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting, Or being lied about,
don't deal in lies, Or being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise:
If you can dream – and not make dreams your master;
If you can think – and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools:
If you can make one heap of all your winnings And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss, And lose, and start again at your beginnings
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew To serve your turn long after they are gone, And so hold on when there is nothing in you Except the Will which says to them: "Hold on!"
If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with Kings – nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute With sixty seconds' worth of distance run, Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And – which is more – you'll be a Man, my son!

Rudyard Kipling

TO MARK STEVEN CZUKER

The True Gentlemen By Walter Walland

The true gentlemen is the man whose conduct proceeds from goodwill and an acute sense of propriety and whose self-control is equal to all emergencies; who does not make the poor man conscience of his poverty; the obscure man of his obscurity, or any man of his inferiority or deformity; who is himself humble if necessity compels him to humble another; who thinks of the rights and feelings of others rather than his own; who does not flatter wealth; cringe before power or boast of his own possessions or achievements; who speaks with frankness, but always with sincerity and sympathy; whose deed follows his work; a man who appears well in any company, with honor sacred and virtue safe.

All who have meditated on the art of governing mankind have been convinced that the fate of empires depends on the education of youth.

Educated men are as much superior to uneducated men as the living are to the dead.
